President Signs Draft at 3 p. m. Today

CONSCRIPTION PUT IN EFFECT BY PRESIDENT

Proclamation to Fix Date For Registration of All Men In Age Limit.

GUARD MOBILIZED

Units From 26 States Called For Service; Go to Camp Within 10 Days.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt will sign into law at 3 p. m. (EST) today the nation's first peace-time conscription bill.

Stephen Early, White house press secretary, said the chief executive probably would issue at the same time a proclamation and an executive order putting the draft into effect and "give out an ABC explanatory statement."

It was indicated that the proclamation would fix the date when 16,500,000 men, aged 21 through 35, would be required to register for military service.

Justice and war department authorities spent the week-end studying the provisions and language of the conscription bill from legal and military viewpoints to make sure everything was in order before Mr. Roosevelt affixed his signature.

Final congressional action on the conscription legislation Saturday after more than a month of debate enabled the war department to proceed on the final phases of its plans for putting 400 000 trainees in khaki by the end of the year.

Anticipating quick approval of Mr. Roosevelt's request to congress for an appropriation to defray the costs of conscription, war department sources said they expected the date for registration would be Oct. 15, or thereabouts, with the first draft contingent of about 75,000 entering service about a month later. Subsequent quotas of 100,000 or 125 000 will be called up until the 400,000 mark is reached.

Meanwhile to the accompaniment of the inevitable "you're in the-army-now," some 60,000 citizen-soldiers trooped into their armories today in the first fed-

PICK RAYBURN

House Elects Texas Dem as Bankhead's Successor.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sam Rayburn, 58-year-old Texas Democrat, was elected speaker of the house of representatives by acclamation today while the body of his predecessor, the late William B. Bankhead of Alabama, lay in state at the foot of the house rostrum.

Members of a Democratic conference held just before the election said there was no discussion regarding filling the majority leadership which Rayburn is vacating and some expressed belief that nothing would be done about it immediately.

Rep. Boland of Pennsylvania, the Democratic whip, told newsmen, however, he would be a candidate for the floor leadership.

Crash Victim

DR. GLENN FRANK

Dr. Glenn Frank, Republican platform committee chairman, and former president of the University of Wisconsin, died last night in an automobile crash at Green Bay, Wis.

FRANK KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Former University President Was Senatorial Candidate In Wisconsin.

(By Associated Press)

GREENLEAF Wis—Dr Glenn Frank, 52, Republican political adviser educator, and author, was killed in an automobile accident last night on the election eve of his first campaign for public office.

His son Glenn Frank, jr., 21, a newspaper reporter, was injured fatally and a publicity aide suffered minor injuries.

Dr. Frank, chairman of the Republican party's policy committee, was seeking the U. S. senatorial nomination in tomorrow's Wisconsin primary election.

Enroute from one political gathering to another, Frank's automobile failed to round a curve at a road intersection, crashed into a sand pile, and overturned.

Dr. Frank was killed outright. His son died on the way to a hospital at Green Bay.

Theodore Stumpf, 23, of Waukanee, a member of Frank's campaign publicity staff, was burned by acid let loose by the automobile's campaign sound equipment.

Dr. Frank had attended a political picnic at Stoughton during the afternoon and was on his way to a Green Bay hotel for dinner with Republican leaders when the accident occurred.

After serving 12 years as president of the University of Wisconsin, Frank was removed by the board of regents in January 1937.

Throughout his election campaign Frank declared that he hoped to rid Wisconsin of "La Folletteism." Phillip F. La Follette, brother of Senator Robert M. La Follette (Prog-Wis), was governor when Frank was ousted as president of the university.

EX-PREMIERS MEET IN JAIL

Blum Joins Daladier, Reynaud In 'Guilt' Trials.

VICHY, France —(UP)— Leon Blum, leader of the French Socialists, founder of the popular front and twice premier, joined two other former premiers in enforced residence in guarded Chateau Chauzeron today.

Eduard Daladier and Paul Reynaud were already there, as were former Generalissimo Maurice Gustave Gamelin and Georges Mandel, former minister of colonies.

Blum and others were being held for the supreme court and it was believed that all would eventually face trials on their responsibility for the war.

NO RESISTANCE

French Expected To Permit Japanese Troop Action.

HANOI, FRENCH INDO-CHINA —(AP)— Authoritative French, Japanese and other foreign sources expressed belief today that early developments may bring the Japanese army into this French possession, probably without any resistance by the French.

But this, they said, may prompt China to send armies across the colonial frontier and lead to a conflict that would mean the beginning of the end of France's 60-year domination of this 230,000 square mile area in eastern Asia.

CONTRACT LET FOR BUILDING NEW STATION

Remodeling of Pennsylvania Depot to Start; Move Ticket Offices.

B. AND O. FINISHES JOB

Plans to Open Its New Depot Wednesday; Old One to Be Torn Down.

A contract had been let today to Peck and Udell, Cleveland contractors, for remodeling the Pennsylvania station in Mansfield, while B and O. officials announced that the new B. and O. depot will be ready for use Wednesday.

James E. Young, Pennsylvania passenger agent, said work will be started immediately on the station structure and the remodeling probably will be completed within eight or 10 weeks.

The Pennsylvania and Erie ticket offices and waiting rooms were moved today to passenger coaches on a siding east of the station. They will serve as temporary depots until work on the combined Pennsylvania and Erie station is far enough along so that a part of it can be occupied, Young said.

Under a separate contract, work on the subway under the Pennsylvania tracks has been completed and the westbound waiting room and both westbound and eastbound platforms are ready at the Pennsylvania section of the station.

Work on the $75,000 remodeling project was started several weeks ago Other small contracts for interior work on the station will be let-later, Young said.

Cost of the new tan brick B and O. depot just west of the old station had been boosted to approximately $12,000 today with the construction of a $1,500 platform, B. and O. officials said. The total cost was estimated originally at $8,000

While it is slightly smaller than the old structure, the new depot is one of the most modern in the B. and O. system.

DISCOVER BODY

Mansfielders Find Suicide Victim Washed Ashore.

Forced ashore by a storm while fishing in Lake Erie near Cedar Point Saturday afternoon, F. A. Arnold, 196 McPherson street, and Henry Hock, 57 Myers avenue, found the body of a 52-year-old Sandusky packing house worker who had been missing since last Monday.

Arnold said the man's body was washed up on the beach a few feet from where Arnold and Hock had taken shelter and were eating their lunch.

They summoned Sandusky authorities who immediately identified the body as that of the missing man who had left a note, telling relatives he planned to take his life.

Authorities said the man apparently had jumped into the lake at Sandusky. The body was found about three and a half miles from the Sandusky dock.

3 O. S. R. Fugitives Captured After Being Trapped In Wood

Freedom was short-lived for three trusties who fled from the Ohio State reformatory. They were captured yesterday by Hamilton county authorities, less than 24 hours after they escaped, through a window in the farm dormitory Saturday night.

The trio was reported by Cincinnati police to have driven there in an automobile stolen in Shelby. They were identified as John Auld, 21, Toledo, and Richard Heyne, 19, and Robert Potts, 20, both of Cincinnati.

Auld was taken into custody by Capt. John Gettle of the suburban Solar Hills rangers yesterday morning when he surprised the fugitives in a wooded section of southeastern Hamilton county, dispatches from Cincinnati said.

The other two escaped amid gunfire and remained at large until evening. By that time officers had surrounded the area and finally captured them.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said the trusties were reported missing from the dormitory at the 9:30 p. m count. He said it was still not known today how they fled. Auld, dispatches said, told Cincinnati police they went through a window.

Hamilton county authorities reported the automobile found at the scene of the capture was owned by J. J. Hawk of Shelby and was taken by the trio in Shelby. They admitted driving to Bucyrus and then stealing the license plates from a car owned by Mrs. J. C. Kibler of that city.

Glattke said Auld was committed Feb. 23 1939 and was serving a 10 to 25 year sentence for robbery. Heyne committed Sept. 28, 1939 and Potts received May 18, 1939 were serving one to 15 years terms for burglary and larceny.

SCORE KILLED IN OHIO TRAFFIC

2 Injured In Richland Area; Grade Crossing Mishaps Takes Lives of 7.

More than a score of persons were killed in Ohio traffic crashes and two were injured in the Richland county area over the week-end

Most tragic of the accidents were two train-auto collisions which took seven lifes, most of them those of children

The injured in the Richland county area where Clarence Elkins 21, of Ashland Ky., and John Martin, 19, Detroit, who suffered injuries in an automobile accident north of Lovell Saturday when the car in which they were riding failed to negotiate a turn on Route 23.

They were taken to the Bucyrus City hospital, where Elkins was treated for chest injuries and Martin for a ruptured kidney and fractured right hip. Hospital officials described their condition as "fair" today.

Four persons were killed today when a fast Pennsylvania passenger train struck their automobile at a down town Van Wert crossing.

Unemployed Men Line up For Jobs Of Blast Victims

KENVIL, N. J.—(AP)—Dynamite production was resumed today at the explosion-torn Hercules powder company plant while unemployed men gathered at the gate to seek the jobs of the 47 dead.

A Dies committee investigator who search employes' lockers at the plant for possible links to subversive groups took his findings to Washington.

Robert B Barker, special investigator for the house committee on un-American activities, was checking lockers spared by Thursday's mysterious blasts and of the plant payroll yesterday as Sheriff Denton J. Quick led 18 deputized police chiefs in a raid on the German American Bund's Camp Nordland ten miles from here.

Quick, who said he sought to check the Hercules payroll against a list of persons believed to frequent the Bund camp, reported seizure of subversive literature and a rifle equipped with telescopic sights.

STORM WARNING

Ships Run to Cover Off New England Coast.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Warnings of an approaching hurricane sent small craft to cover today as heavy seas battered vessels off the Long Island New Jersey coasts.

The 5,609-ton Swedish freighter Laponia radioed that she was disabled by the hurricane about 300 miles east of Cape Hatteras and that she was leaking badly.

Two coast guard cutters were dispatched from Norfolk and the President Roosevelt, nearest vessel to the Laponia, radioed that she was going to the freighter's assistance.

Storm warnings were flown from Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Me.

Postal Inspectors to Check Looting of Pouch Stolen From Union Depot.

FINDS SACK NEAR HOME

North Main Resident Discovers Pouch In Yard; Believe Shelby Mail Was In It.

Federal postal inspectors were expected in Mansfield today to investigate theft of a mail pouch from the union passenger depot.

The sack, slashed open and rifled of most of its contents, was discovered between two chicken houses on North Main street yesterday morning where it had apparently been tossed four days ago.

Postmaster Herman E. Homberger reported that postoffice employes had no knowledge of the missing pouch until police informed them of the discovery of the sack yesterday.

He said contents of the pouch were unknown and that postoffice department inspections in Marion and Cincinnati had been notified of the theft They were expected to arrive here today.

Discovery of the pouch was made by Anthony Brucato, rear of 268 North Main street, who called police about 8 a. m. yesterday when he found the sack lying between the chicken houses.

Two Packages Left.

Detective O M. Krupp reported that the pouch had been slashed from end to end. He said it contained two parcel post packages, one of which had been opened.

He turned the pouch and the contents over to postal officials.

They said the pouch was one of several from Shelby consigned for Ashland

It was theorized that the sack was taken from the depot while in the course of being transferred from a truck to a train. Homberger said the Shelby mail was trucked to Mansfield and then transferred to train for delivery at Ashland

He said identification tags on the pouch showed that it was sent from Shelby Sept 12 It was not known whether the bag contained any insured packages, although Homberger said it was not a registered pouch.

'Tag Day' Brings In $800 For High Band Uniform Fund

With more than $800 rolling into the "Tag Day" committee's treasury Saturday, it appeared today that the Mansfield Senior high school band members might discard their nine-year-old uniforms sometime soon.

Although several hundred dollars more will be needed to equip the band with new uniforms, the uniform fund committee was confident today that the figure could be reached with a little extra effort.

Band members and their mothers worked until after midnight Saturday in their effort to put the campaign over.

"Some of the band members didn't even leave the streets to go home for their meals Saturday," Mrs. H. L. Hockett, general chairman of the campaign said today.

No regular fund is set up by the school board for buying new uniforms.

Mrs. Hockett, speaking for the committee, said that the band "was tremendously grateful" for the support Mansfield citizens gave to the campaign.

Artillery and Planes Batter British Shores

Big Air Battle Waged High Over London; Dover Shoppers Disturbed By Long Range Fire; Rain Hides Action Of German Troop Movement

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—The all clear signal sounded in London at 5:59 p. m. (11:59 a. m. EST) to end the city's fourth air raid alarm since dawn, one of the longest daytime alarms of the war—three hours 49 minutes.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—Reich Marshal Hermann Goering, commander of the Nazi air force, personally piloted a German bombing plane over London during Sunday's air battles, it was disclosed today by an authorized source.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Detonation of artillery shells, lifted across 22 miles of the English channel, shook Dover today and German bombers repeatedly stabbed at the London area as Britain tensely awaited the next strategy of Adolf Hitler, which may be an attempt to invade this fortified island.

Machine-gun fire high over London's streets and the rattle of shrapnel on roofs told of a big air battle during the fourth air raid alarm of the day.

Nothing happened in the first three alarms, but bombs were heard in the east during the fourth, sounded at 2:10 p. m. (8:10 a. m. EST) and anti-aircraft guns put up a heavy barrage.

Eleven persons were injured in the shelling of Dover.

The big German shells fell in Dover streets crowded with shoppers as correspondents in the "invasion corner" of Britain continued to report movement of many German troop carriers, of all shapes and sizes, close along the French and Belgian coasts under cover of the night mists.

It was understood that the German guns were replying to a bombardment of the French coast by British long range guns which fired about two dozen shells across the channel

For the first time in weeks, heavy rainfall partly shrouded the activities at Hitler's bases across the channel

Veteran seamen hoped a "stiff nor'easter" soon would pile up high waves on the French coast which would make impossible any immediate thrust across the narrow waters.

Alarms of a total duration of an hour and 54 minutes were sounded in the London area

(German sources said that heavy bombers had been taking off in a steady procession since early dawn, and a "rolling" air barrage was being leveled at Britain.)

Alarms of 35, 40 and 41 minutes were sounded between 10 55 a. m. and 2·10 p. m.

During the first alarm a large formation of bombers was encountered inland by British fighters, who turned it back.

Channel Weather Favors Britain

DOVER Eng.—(UP)—Weather conditions today were growing steadily less favorable for an attempt to invade Great Britain across the English channel. The channel coast was foggy and conditions generally were regarded by officials here as favoring the British.

ADMITTED: Italy Says Egypt Invaded In Suez Canal Drive

(By International News Service)

ROME—With official admission that a military offensive against Egypt has begun, the Italian high command today announced occupation of Sollum and destruction of 50 British tanks and armored cars attempting to defend the town.

The offensive was undertaken, a government spokesman said, "because Italy can no longer permit Egypt to be used as a base for attacks on Libya and Ethiopia, nor can it tolerate the blocking of Italian traffic in the Suez canal through violation of international agreements"

"Italy," the spokesman said, "still does not desire to drag the Egyptian people into war, but the action is made necessary by the supineness of the new Egyptian government."

The official communique issued by the high command claimed a virtual rout of British troops guarding Egypt's Mediterranean ports. The statement added:

"In the eastern Mediterranean, our speedboats sank an enemy submarine.

"An enemy cruiser which was attacked by one of our air formations received a full hit by a medium-caliber bomb"

DEFENSE: British Resistance To Air Attacks Gains Strength

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)

The outstanding development of the week-end has been the increased strength of the British resistance and counter-attack to the Nazi air assault against London as Hitler has driven his pack furiously for a kill.

The English claimed a record bag of 185 planes for yesterday (a figure disputed by Berlin) as against 25 Royal Air Force machines lost. Again this morning the British were reported to have started the day aggressively by turning back another heavy Nazi attack.

Ominous but unexplained was the bombardment of the important English east coast port of Dover this morning by Nazi long range naval guns from the French shore. This naturally gave rise to speculation as to whether it was the red flare signalling the imminence of a German attempt at invasion. Only one thing was wholly apparent however that Hitler was stending himself in his effort to make in the British defense a crack big enough to permit of his grand coup

If and when Hitler makes his attack it will be a lightning stroke, and as much in the nature of a surprise as he is able to make it.

It is interesting to note the German contention that the British have been weakening their

Becoming Hat Always Brings Luck

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mrs. Wendell Willkie speaks of the white pique hat with its band of black belting as her "good luck hat." And whether her husband becomes our next president or not, the now-famous hat may still go on record as her "good luck hat," because it's highly becoming to her and shows several of her good points.

Any woman fortunate enough to find a modern hat that is becoming and in style has a good luck hat, whether there's any political plum on the horizon for herself or husband or if she's juset trying to be elected president of her favorite club.

For the past three years, women's hats have been fearsome things. There are no available statistics on how many men they may have driven to celibacy. But judging from the cartoons men draw and the cracks made against them in the public print, the gentlemen are not intrigued by these strange formations.

Patience is evidently one of Mrs. Willkie's virtues to have found an up-to-date hat not in the least freakish. Other women, granting a long and prayerful quest, might be as fortunate as the Republican Presidential nominee's wife in finding something among the mad-hatter eccentricities that is becoming.

Rumor has it that Wendell likes the "good luck hat" and has been known to ask in Othello-like tones, when she wears something else: "Where's that hat?"

Believe it or not, I heard two or three weeks ago that a delegation of business women had sent a petition to a hat manufacturer saying: "Please let us have some sane hats for business, even if you have to give us 'play hats' that are exotic." And some of the "play hats," if that's really the name of them, would queer the Venus de Milo if she left her pedestal.

The older women has murmured a prayer of devout thankfulness for the return of the veil. Indications are, in early autumn millinery, that its floating effect will give way to the neatly pinned tailored suggestion, which keeps the hair in perfect order and tempers the mid-day glare on a complexion no longer school-girlish.

Posture Still Most Important

By MME. QUI VIVE

Well-mannered individuals don't trot around criticizing the appearance of other people. It's something that just isn't done, even in the family circle. The exception is poor posture. Everybody picks on the poor dear who doesn't hold herself splendidly. "Stand up." "Throw your shoulders back!" She hears it all the time, gets pretty sick of it. Some of the more intimate reformers give her a smacking thump on the back to emphasize their remarks; it infuriates her. But she goes right on slumping along, chest flat, the upper portion of her body thrown forward. You'd think that, just for the sake of peace, she would pull herself up by the bootstraps and look like a spirited, vitalized young lady.

The trouble is not with the shoulders that have become rounded, but with the spinal column. Keep the backbone properly posed, the head balanced and the chest will be lifted, shoulders will not fall.

The spinal column is the main support of the body. It has thirty-four little hinges that give suppleness of motion. It is held in place by innumerable muscles which will not be sound and elastic if posture is not correct. Good musculature is the first requirement of a good figure.

• • •

With the head carried low and the shoulders pressed forward, the muscles of the back bone become stretched and weak, like elastic bands that have been under strain. Abdominal muscles weaken, form a horrid little shelf that makes the costliest gown look like something that has been pulled off the bargain counter. The internal organs are not likely to function as well as if the body were held erect. All in all it is a pretty kettle of fish and no girl who is out for beauty rewards should let herself get into this bad habit of slumping and slouching.

Properly selected exercises under a trained instructor in a school of physical education are well worth while, will correct conditions if they are not caused by physical ailments. In some cases there are anatomic defects that require the help of a physician.

• • •

Stand on your toes, you who find your shoulders out of form. Extend your hands high above your head and stretch. Sway from side to side, moving the arms along with the body, keeping the arms high.

Take the soldier's position feet together, hips back, chest full. Place your fingers outspread over your chest. Take a deep inhalation through the nostrils, throwing the head back so you feel a pull on the shoulders. Back to first position so you exhale through the lips. This exercise not only improves the figure but will increase the organic vigor of the heart and lungs.

Glazed Ham Loaf Makes Tasty Dish

By BETSY NEWMAN

I HAVE been giving you some old-fashioned recipes lately. The apple sour cream pie is another, which I am sure you will like.

Today's Menu.

Glazed Ham Loaves
Baked Potatoes
Scalloped Cauliflower
Celery and Green Pepper Salad
Apple Sour Cream Pie
Coffee

Glazed Ham Loaves.

- ½ lb. ground smoked ham
- ½ lb. veal shoulder, ground
- 1-3 cup cracker crumbs
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup bottled milk or 2 tablespoons evaporated milk and 2 tablespoons water
- 4 tablespoons minced onion.

Mix all ingredients thoroughly and shape into 5 or 6 individual loaves. Put in roaster and cover with brown sugar glaze. To make glaze, combine ½ cup vinegar and ½ cup water with 1½ cups brown sugar and 2 teaspoons prepared mustard; add about 8 whole cloves and boil together for about 8 minutes, then pour over meat. Bake at about 400 degrees F. for 1 hour, 45 minutes. Serves 6. Tested in Good Housekeeping Institute.

Apple Sour Cream Pie.

- Pastry enough for 1 crust or 1 crust and lattice strips
- Sliced apples
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- Pinch of salt.

Line pie tin with plain pastry and crimp edges, unless you want a lattic top. Fill with peeled, thinly sliced apples. Mix other ingredients and sprinkle half of it over apples. Next pour 1 cup very thick sour cream over pie and then sprinkle the rest of the sugar mixture on top. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (325 degrees) and bake about 45 minutes longer. Serve this pie cold, or it will be runny.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I forgot every precaution of care for Edith in horrified anger at what I believed to be her involuntary revelation. Tearing my hands from her clutching fingers, I bent and put my hand in a firm grip upon her shoulder.

"So you do know about Jack Leslie's plans," I almost shouted at her. "I can believe now what I have refused to believe when others have told me that you were planning to admit him when he came."

"Was it Dicky who told you that?" she queried. "Does he think that of me?"

I was wrong in this particular instance, I told myself, and I did not need Miss Whitlock's warning touch upon my own shoulder to make me release my grasp upon Edith's.

"No, Dicky did not tell me that," I assured her. "And I already have told you that I refused to believe it. But, Edith, aside from that, you knew of Jack Leslie's plans to attack the farmhouse, didn't you?"

I was relentlessly prodding upon that point, for I told myself that it would be a good thing to have what Dicky would term "something on her," in the future, should she survive her present suicidal mania. And I realized that Miss Whitlock approved the question when I no longer felt her warning touch upon my shoulder.

The look of horror had left Edith's eyes upon my assurance that Dicky was not the source of my first accusation. But they were shadowed with humiliation as she answered me.

"It is useless to deny that," she said. "Yes, I knew of his plan although I was not aiding him in it. And, as I hope for mercy from that God before whom I am soon going to stand in judgment, I tell you now that I never planned to admit that fiend here. Indeed, I was never asked to do it."

Upon a sudden impulse, I again took her twisting fingers in mine.

"I believe you, Ede," I said, "and now you must listen quietly to the reason why Dicky has not yet come to see you, and why he cannot come for several hours."

Her eyes searched mine for an instant, then she spoke with quiet docility.

"All right," she said. "I am listening."

"Dicky and Harry are both busy supervising the job of barring the windows which my father has ordered. They cannot leave for anything—you know what my father is when he is preparing for any emergency."

"Yes, I know," she whispered.

"But in another two hours, I believe,"—I went on slowly—"the job will be finished, and if necessary I will see my father myself, and ask him not to requisition Dicky for anything more until he has seen you."

"If Dicky is willing," she said mournfully.

The timbre of her voice, the look in her eyes made me join the Ananias society immediately.

"You must get that thought out of your mind at once," I said. "Dicky is not reluctant to see you."

There was a sudden softening of the flame in her eyes.

"Are you sure?" she whispered.

Care of Equipment Urged

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

IN A GREAT many states school books are free, and so are such supplies as writing paper, pens and pencils. In most school systems, however, the home must supply these accessories.

The child who does not have these simple, necessary tools is handicapped. A few just don't have the money for them. For such, wise teachers and school boards often find a means. Sometimes the school child's parents will neglect purchase of these supplies; or the child receiving the money may not buy them promptly. The same applies to books which must be bought. Very important it is that the child begin school with all the necessary equipment on hand.

Whether books and supplies be free or not, we parents owe it to our children to train them to handle such property with care and economy; and the more so if they are public property. What an opportunity the home and school have in cultivating good citizenship in this direction! We should have the child cover each of his school books with paper or cloth the very first day of school. Also let him have a bag in which to carry his books and supplies. See that he handles all these school materials at home with great care. When he writes or draws for work or play see that he is not extravagant with materials. Teachers need to stress care and economy of private and public property. Let them often examine the waste-basket and train the children to write on both sides of the sheet of paper.

Home Work.

We hope the child, especially the young child, is allowed to take a book home. In some school districts, whole states indeed, elementary children are forbidden the privilege of carrying a book home. Yet how eager the primary child is to show his reader to his parents and playmates, and to read to them from it, especially to his baby brother or sister. In some underprivileged homes there is no other book in sight. A school book carried home by a young child often is a precious bond between him and his parents.

For the child above the fifth grade a fountain pen may be very desirable; also a good dictionary. Wise is the family with growing children which goes without some luxuries in order to have an unabridged dictionary. Wise too the family who has saved in order to have one of the standard encyclopedias, very necessary in these days for the child above the fifth grade, to keep up with his school work. An encyclopedia is valuable, moreover, to help the parent answer the questions of the preschool child; and to settel family doubts and arguments arising in their conversation.

Also a typewriter may be good investment in the home of the school child, particularly if he be in high school; and a typewriter should be considered standard student equipment for college.

"The Authority on Authorities"

CROSS-RUFF EARLY

There is one type of suit-play hand on which it is advisable to count up your winning tricks rather than your losers—the cross-ruff. The usual formula is to see how many top honor tricks are in sight, add to them the number of trumps which can be taken separately by ruffing and to them the number of tricks to be taken on trump leads which probably will be made by the defenders any time they get the lead. The total is the number you should take, but only if the ruffing is started as early in the hand as is feasible.

1.	2.
♠ A 10 8 2 ♥ 6 ♦ A 7 6 4 ♣ 10 7 4 3	♠ A 10 8 2 ♥ 6 ♦ J 8 7 5 4 3 2 ♣ 10
3.	4.
♠ A 10 8 2 ♥ 7 5 ♦ J 8 7 5 4 3 ♣ K	♠ A 10 8 2 ♥ 9 2 ♦ A 7 5 4 ♣ K J 5

South's Hand
♠ K Q J 9
♥ A 6 4 3
♦ 9
♣ A 8 6 5

Cross-ruff hands usually are identified as those in which there is a trump fit, but the side suits are non-fitting, short in one hand and long in the other, with no suit strong enough to furnish any number of discards. That is true of the situations shown above, the numbered hands being considered as dummies opposite South, who strives to make 4-Spades against a lead of the heart K.

With No. 1 as dummy, the declarer can count three side aces, six tricks by ruffs—three in own hand and three in dummy—plus one trick on a trump lead to make his needed ten.

When No. 2 is dummy, there are two side aces and apparently a chance to ruff four tricks in the North hand and four in the South, to make ten. But, if the defenders lead a trump when they win a diamond trick, as they should, obliging declarer to use two trumps on one trick, only nine can be made thus. Hence a better chance is to try to ruff up the diamond suit at once, never wasting dummy's trumps on ruffs, but saving them to drop hostile trumps after the diamonds are established, which probably will require three rounds.

With No. 3 as dummy, game can be counted as cross-ruffing. The two club tops, heart A, three ruffs in each hand and one trick when the opponents lead trumps after taking a heart trick, will total ten. But be careful, after wining the heart A and club K, not to use two trumps on a trick by leading a trump for an entry to South, because of that trump lead and another when the opponents take a heart trick, your ruffs will be cut to four. After the heart A and club K, lead a heart at once.

With No.4 as dummy, beware of an early club finesse. If you lose that after winning the heart trick they will lead trumps again, and your game is cooked. Here you should after the heart A embark on the cross-ruff at once and never take the club finesse, risking losing the lead twice.

HOROSCOPE

A PREPONDERANCE of auspicious planetary aspects in this day's astrological map bespeaks conspicuous success, accomplishment and happiness, both in a business and private way. An opening for outstanding achievement in connection with groups or in mass production is definitely shown, and this may be in some humanitarian, social or political plan for uplift, enlightenment or relief. Social, affectionate and domestic as well as artistic factors or reactions are involved, but there may be some unwelcome news, or perplexing problems to meet, calling for prudence and precaution. Be especially careful with agreements or correspondence.

Those whose birthday it is may expect an important year, with great propitious and happy accomplishments in both business and personal affiliations. An association with groups for political, humane or spiritual purpose, lofty and ambitious, is probable. Also the social, family or love life should bring both pleasure and profit. But be careful with all manner of writings, documents and correspondence, which may complicate or present anxiety and problems.

A child born on this day may be clever, refined, artistic, affectionate and friendly. It may have an outstanding flare for social service, political prestige or possibly spiritual uplift

CATSUP AS BEVERAGE

The ruling classes of Mongolia formerly used catsup as a prized beverage drinking it as they did wine. When tomato juice was introduced into that country it became the substitute for catsup.

CANDIDATES SHY FROM SALES TAX REPEAL BACKING

Democratic Office Seekers Like 'Principle' But See No Substitute.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — A survey of opinion by Democratic candidates for the Ohio legislature from Cuyahoga county showed a majority are marking time on the proposed repeal of the state 3 per cent sales tax.

Martin L. Davey, Democratic candidate for governor, and the state Democratic platform call for repeal of the tax. A poll by the Cleveland News disclosed no candidate who was ready to say definitely he would vote for repeal at this time.

All who expressed an opinion said they favored repeal "in principle" but expressed doubt sufficient replacement taxes could be found.

Davey has called a meeting of Democratic legislative candidates here Monday, when repeal will be discussed. Early this week the candidates named a committee of four to draw up a local platform. They are William J. Zoul, Lody Huml, James Metzenbaum and Margaret Mahoney.

The candidates expressed concern over fate of the old age pensions, relief and the state school foundation in event the tax is repealed.

Some of the comment:

William M. Boyd—I think the sales tax ought not be repealed until a substitute is found. We can't wreck our taxation system.

James Metzenbaum — I don't know. I've been too sick to know much about anything the last 30 days. I'll take a rain check.

William J. Zoul—I wouldn't vote for repeal of the sales tax unless I knew where the money was going to come from for old age pensions, relief and the schools. I was against the sales tax originally but voted for it when the proceeds were allocated for those purposes.

Otto J. Bartunek—I don't know where they're going to get the money to replace the sales tax. Davey may have something up his sleeve, but that's a lot of money. I've got to be shown just where the money is coming from.

Charles A. Vanik—I'm not ready to say, but I think a state income tax would be much wiser.

William Hudlett—If the sales tax can be repealed and adequately replaced—fine. But just to repeal the sales tax—well, I don't see how it can be done. I urged an income tax four years ago.

Lody Huml—In principle, I favor repeal of the sales tax. I led the fight for the constitutional amendment which eliminated food from the sales tax. It will be necessary to have new replacement measures in effect before the sales tax can be repealed. New replacement taxes are possible, in my opinion.

BEETLES BUSY

German School Children go Into Fields to Hunt Bugs.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The commerce department reported yesterday that a heavy infestation of beetles was a serious menace to Germany's potato crop. The Reich annually produces about 50,000,000 metric tons of potatoes. S. B. Redecker, consul at Frankfort-on-Main, advised that school children had been organized to search the fields for the bugs and that the government was supplying insecticides free.

(Germany recently accused British aviators of dropping bugs on potato fields. Britain called the charges absurd.)

LOUIS BRUCKER ANNEXES TITLE

SHELBY Out-pacing his nearest competitors in the first 18-hole round in the morning by scoring a 75, Louis Brucker, jr., of Shelby won the annual medal cup golf tournament at Shelby Country club, with a score of 159 for the 36-hole event.

The tournament had been postponed to Sunday because of inclement weather earlier in the month. Ed Wenninger was second with 161.

THEATERS

McCrea as Correspondent.

George Sanders, well known for his movie portrayals in the "Saint" series, becomes Joel McCrea's romantic rival in the film "Foreign Correspondent," showing at the Madison. McCrea has the title role in the exciting drama of the European situation, and Robert Benchley, screen satirist, dialog writer and critic, wrote his own part in this picture. He plays the role of the neurotic London manager of an American news agency.

Four Stars In 'Boom Town.'

Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr are presented in the thrill-packed human interest story playing at the Ohio. Gable and Tracy are seen in a total of five fights, one of which is a terrific battle between themselves, the frantic fight to blast out a roaring oil well fire, and several other incidents as exciting. In the supporting cast are Frank Morgan, Lionel Atwill, Marion Martin and Minna Gombell.

* * *

Musical Comedy Theme.

War Background.

A tender love story against a dramatic war background is that of "Waterloo Bridge" which is playing through Tuesday at the Ritz. Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor are co-starred with Miss Leigh presenting a sympathetic performance, quite unlike that of Scarlett O'Hara. The theme is woven around the 24-hour courtship of the petite dancer and the dashing officer. The second attraction is "Johnny Apollo" with Tyrone Power and Dorothy Lamour.

Over 600,000 Ohioans to Register for Army Service

EXPECT 25,000 BUCKEYES WILL ENTER SERVICE

Middle of October Likely Time For Registration Of Conscripts.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Between 600,000 and 810,000 Ohioans, it was estimated today, will register for military service about the middle of October after President Roosevelt signs the military conscription act and orders its machinery placed in operation.

If the president calls for registration of men between the ages of 21 and 35—the age limits specified in the measure—it was estimated that some 806,000 Ohioans would register.

If the chief executive asks for registration only of those from 21 through 31 about 600,000 would be required to register.

In either event it was believed that Ohio's quota of troops taken to army camps for a year's military training would be between 20,000 and 25,000.

No date has been set, but it was believed President Roosevelt would fix the registration date on or about October 15. The presidential proclamation will be followed by another issued by Governor Bricker and the draft machinery then will be thrown into gear.

A complete selective service plan has been set up by the adjutant general's department and approved by the governor. This plan has been revised constantly since World war days in preparation for such a contingency and has been kept up to date by a selective service committee of officers of the national guard.

Secretary of State George M. Neffner notified county election boards weeks ago to assign two workers—without pay—to each precinct to register men subject to the draft in their regular polling places. He said the work would be completed in Ohio in one day.

As soon as he signs the required proclamation Governor Bricker will recommend a state selective service director to head the state draft organization. The actual appointment lies with the president.

Preparations' also have been completed for the recommendation—subject to presidential appointment—of the 338 draft boards in the state, appeals boards, registrants advisory board, medical examiners and other agencies necessary for the administration of the law.

Program Ready For Wednesday GOP Convention

COLUMBUS — (U.P.)—Republican leaders today announced completion of a program for the G. O. P.'s one-day platform convention here on Wednesday.

The keynote address will be delivered at the morning session by Maj. Norman A. Imrie, a former Columbus newspaperman. Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert and Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, dean of the Ohio congressional delegation, will address the convention in the afternoon with the addresses of Governor Bricker and Mayor Harold H. Burton, the senatorial nominee, reserved for the evening session.

The platform which will have been drawn tentatively in advance of the convention also will be adopted at the evening meeting.

Governor and Mrs. Bricker will entertain at a dinner at the executive mansion for members of the state central and campaign committees and their wives, and Mrs. Bricker will hold a tea in the late afternoon for women attending the convention.

HELD AT BUCYRUS

Andrew T. Durbin of Kenton, Faces Fradulent Check Charge.

BUCYRUS—Andrew T. Durbin, of Kenton, Democratic candidate for state senator in the 13th district two years ago, had been taken to Columbus today from Bucyrus where he was arrested Friday on a charge of issuing fradulent checks.

Durbin was taken into custody by Patrolman Clem Lohr of Bucyrus on a warrant issued in Columbus. Durbin is a son of W. W. Durbin, widely known in Ohio political circles.

Two Senior high students found that a busy intersection isn't the best place in the world to study their Latin lessons. Perched on a bank at Sturges avenue and Park avenue last week, the girls finally gave up their translation work because of screeching brakes and the sound of horns which interrupted them almost constandly.

John Correll, Mansfield Democratic party worker, was telling his political friends today about his meeting with National Democratic Chairman Edward J. Flynn over the week-end. Correll went as a guest of Ray T. Miller to the Democratic steer Roast and rally at Geauga park, several miles north of Kent, Sunday. During the party Correll had a long talk with Flynn and Martin L. Davey, former governor. Correll came back with "plenty of new ideas," on how to put the Democrats into office this fall, he told friends today.

A little boy with three pennies—all of them cached in his mouth—won the hearts of Mansfield high school band members during their uniform fund "tag day" drive Saturday. Wanting a tag, the little boy walked up to a bandster and inquired about cost. Told anything he wanted to give was sufficient, the boy took one penny from his mouth, dried it carefully and gave it to the band member. He then walked proudly away with his red tag prominently displayed on his chest.

CARDENAS ASKS MEXICAN UNITY

Almazan Supporters Riot In Front of National Guard Palace at Zocalo.

(By International News Service)

MEXICO CITY — A plea by President Lazaro Cardenas to all Mexicans to unite before civil war brings ruin to the country was before the nation today.

The presidential appeal was made in the wake of a riotous night in Zocalo where 10,000 arden political supporters of Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan stormed the Zocalo national guard palace shoting "We want Almazan for president!"

"Mexicans should postpone their grievances and ambitions for the benefit of national unity," Cardenas declared in a speech at Dolores Hidalgo, Guanajuato, cradle of Mexican liberty.

At Zocalo, the rioters bowled over police and smashed their way into the national guard palace grounds before reinforcements, hurriedly summoned by Gen. Jose Nunez, chief of police, drove the demonstrators back with tear gas bombs. Ten persons were treated for injuries.

Gen. Almazan, who was defeated in the recent national elections for the presidency, has publicly predicted he will return to Mexico within a few months as president. At present he is in the United States.

ROOSEVELT LEADS WASHINGTON IN CEREMONIES FOR BANKHEAD

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt leads official Washington in paying tribute to the late Speaker William B. Bankhead at a state funeral today after the house elects Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas as speaker.

The president will attend the state services in the capitol and also the services in the speaker's home town of Jasper, Ala.

Veteran house members, after combing precedents, decided that it was necessary for the house to elect a new speaker before it could properly pay tribute to the beloved Bankhead.

Rayburn, as Democratic floor leader, was assured of election as speaker, perhaps by unanimous vote.

Mr. Roosevelt, sorrowed by the death of the late speaker, who had conferred with him regularly upon progress of legislation, made known his intention of attending both funeral services. The capitol services will take place in the house chamber at 12:30 p. m.

"In the untimely death of the speaker," said Mr. Roosevelt in a tribute to Bankhead, "every American loses a tried and proven friend, of our system of government. His experience, his fairness and his personality had endeared him to his colleagues and to all who knew him."

Members of the cabinet, supreme court justices, the senate, diplomats and many officials of the government will join in the services for Bankhead, who died in Naval hospital early Sunday morning after five days' illness. The body will be taken to his home in Jasper, Ala., late this afternoon, for final services and interment tomorrow. A committee of 60 representatives will accompany the remains southward.

Tributes to Bankhead who, at 66 had served 23 years in the house and had been speaker since 1936, flowed into the capitol from all parts of the nation.

Friends attributed his death, caused by a ruptured artery in the abdomen, to his devotion to the Democratic party. Worn by legislative duties and the Chicago convention, he went to Baltimore last Tuesday to deliver a campaign speech. He was stricken with an attack of sciatica in Baltimore.

Flynn Blasts Willkie In Cleveland Speech

NEW CHAIRMAN OF DEMOCRATS HITS POLICIES

Davey Promises Ohioans They Will Pay His Expenses On Fair Trips.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Wendell Willkie has "lined up with the wrong party" if he "really believes" in the president's farm relief, unemployment insurance, old age pensions and conservative programs and foreign policy, says National Democratic Chairman Edward J. Flynn.

Conflict exists between the Republican presidential nominee and "a great majority of the Republican members of both the house and senate," Flynn asserted yesterday at a steer roast attended by several thousand Cuyahoga county Democrats.

The national Democratic chairman shared the speaking program with former Gov. Martin L. Davey, seeking a third term; John McSweeney, senatorial nominee, and National Committeeman Charles Sawyer.

Flynn declared there is "strange disagreement" between Willkie and Rep. Joseph Martin, national Republican chairman.

"Mr. Willkie has endorsed the president's preparedness measures and those formulated to keep us out of war," the Democratic leader said, "but Mr. Martin voted against the neutrality act of 1939.

"Mr. Willkie says the farmers should not be deprived of the present farm benefits. Mr. Martin voted 'no' on the appropriation of parity payments in March, 1939.

"Mr. Willkie recently announced: 'I hope that as a result of the conference between the house and senate conferees on the selective service bill the Fish amendment is eliminated.' On the Fish amendment to delay conscription for 60 days Mr. Martin voted 'yea.'

"If by any chance Mr. Willkie were elected, he would witness the sad spectacle of the president's recommendations being rejected by the congressional leaders of his own party. . . . Mr. Willkie should at least see to it that a fair majority of the members of his own party support some of the measures that he advocates."

Redlegs Call On Thompson To Turn Trick

Gloom Spreads In Cincy Camp With Lombardi Out With Sprained Ankle.

BROOKLYN—(UP)—A badly sprained ankle to Catcher Ernie Lombardi spread gloom in the camp of the Cincinnati Reds today.

It's not that the injury—or anything else—was likely to interfere with the Redleg pennant quest but Skipper Bill McKechnie and his boys were fearful big Lom might not be in shape to play in the world series two weeks hence.

The sprain was suffered yesterday when the Rhinelanders increased their first place lead to nine full games by trouncing Brooklyn, 13 to 3, and playing a 1 to 1 draw in the nightcap of a doubleheader before 33,339 customers.

* * *

Lombardi twisted his right ankle chasing a foul fly in the first game. X-ray picture failed to reveal a fracture but physicians said there was a possibility the injury would not heal in time for Ernie to catch in the world series.

* * *

This came as a big disappointment to Lom, not only because he had a chance for the league batting championship, but also because he has a few plans for world series redemption to atone his fourth-game fiasco of last October.

McKechnie sent a hurry call to Indianapolis to bring in Dick West, catcher, who has been with the Indians on option from the Reds. Jimmy Wilson finished the day behind the plate for Cincinnati yesterday.

Bucky Walters coasted behind a 16-hit Cincinnati attack to chalk up his 20th win against nine losses in the opener. The Reds tallied four runs in the initial inning. Everybody participated in the hitting except Walters and Lonnie Frey. Lombardi had two for three when taken out while Frank McCormick drove in four runs with three safeties.

Paul Derringer, also striving for win No. 20, engaged in a pitching duel with Luke Hamlin and Whit Wyatt in the second game before darkness halted the proceedings in the 11th inning. Each side got eight hits and one walk.

The Reds might have won, 1-0, in regulation time if Wilson had held on to a relay throw by Billy Myers in the Dodgers' half of the ninth inning. The omission allowed Reiser to score. Wilson was not charged with an error because the official scorer claimed Reiser beat the throw.

* * *

Frey batted in the Cincinnati run when he singled in the second inning after Jimmy Ripple had doubled.

* * *

The two clubs play off the tied game today which previously had been an open date. Gene Thompson for the Reds and Curt Davis or Hugh Casey for Brooklyn are the likely hurlers.

BELIEVE-IT-OR-NOT

Some weeks back we told of a baseball team which staged an uproarious 18-run inning in which one player came to bat three times and got three hits and another went up three times and drew three walks . . . we never thought we'd read of anything to beat the likes of that, but here it is . . . Texas league records show that in August, 1929, Waco defeated Beaumont, 20 to 7 . . . Waco scored 18 runs in the eighth inning . . . Gene Rye, Waco's centerfielder, was up three times in the eighth . . . he slammed out three homers—one to right, one to center and one to left . . . we know this is hard to swallow, but it's in the book.

RUMOR FOUNDRY

Is Southern California going to bolt the Pacific Coast conference unless the Atherton decision on Johnny Petrovich is reversed? All right, we're just asking. . . . Brooklyn papers apparently have given up on the Dodgers for they're already talking about what a hot time there'll be in the National league in 1941. . . . Oscar Vitt is hinting he may come out of the Cleveland mess better off than any of those who've been yelling for his scalp.

WHAT'S THIS!

You could have knocked our eyes out when we read that southwest conference sports writers have made Southern Methodist a favorite for the title over Texas A. and M. . . . vote was 108 to 69.

Lumbers Win Series From All-Star Club

Alta Team Cops First Game Of Softball Doubleheader.

Winning the second contest of a scheduled double-header with the Y. M. C. A. Commercial league All-Stars yesterday afternoon at Liberty park, the Alta Lumbers copped the five-game benefit series between the two clubs.

The Lumbers dropped the opener 8 to 4, but took the second half of the bill 9 to 1, giving the Lumbers a 3-1 edge in the series. The games were played for the benefit of Gene Yarman of the Safety Cab softball club who is ill.

In the first game the Alta team held a 4-1 in the seventh inning, but the Stars pushed five runs across the plate in their half of the eighth to take a 6-4 lead. They added two more in the ninth. Winebrenner was the winning pitcher, giving up only four hits.

The Lumbers took the lead in the third inning of the second contest, scoring one run. They added two more in the fifth and six in the sixth. The Stars were shut out until the seventh frame when they scored their lone run. Joe Wentz worked on the mound for the Lumbers.

Akron Takes Series Lead

Meets Dayton In Fourth Game of Playoff.

DAYTON —(AP)— Akron Yankees, leading two games to one, meet Dayton's Wings in the fourth game of the Mid-Atlantic league playoff finals here tonight.

* * *

The Rubber City club won its second successive game last night, 5 to 4, after losing the opener at home. The series is four out of seven for playoff honors. Akron won the loop's 1940 pennant.

The neat five-hit pitching of Mel Queen, who overcame a bad start, smoothed the way for the Akron victory last night. He walked the first two men to face him, and a double by Cibrowski scored them both.

Cleveland Back In After Detroit Loses

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP) Sports Writer.

AS QUICKLY as you can say Robert William Andrew Feller the Cleveland Indians have ascended again to the American league's throne room.

* * *

* * *

Feller led the way to a double decker decision over the Philadelphia Athletics. He gave up only two hits, struck out seven and for the second time in his major league career allowed no walks, in scoring a 5-0 shutout.

It was Feller's 25th win against nine losses. The Indians had some trouble in the nightcap when the A's got rough with Al Smith, but George Caster, after pitching nohit ball for four frames, blew wide open and the Tribe triumphed 8-5 with four runs in the fifth and three more off Chubby Dean in the seventh.

At the same time the man-eating Tigers were tamed 6-1 by Dutch Leonard of the Washington Senators, who gave up only six hits and one run—a homer by Rudy York.

The onrushing Chicago White Sox won two and the slowing-up New York Yankees lost two, leaving this lineup:

Club	W	L	Pct.	GB	TP
Cleveland	81	59	.579		14
Detroit	80	60	.571	1	14
New York	77	62	.554	3½	15
Chicago	78	64	.549	4	12
Boston	74	67	.532	7½	13

The Yankees were the victims of this year's greatest Giant killers, the St. Louis Browns, 10-5 and 2-1. This ran New York's slump to five defeats in six games and put the champs in jeopardy of being passed by the speeding Chicago White Sox, who ran their winning streak to eight games and just about eliminated the Boston Red Sox with twin triumphs, 5-1 and 4-2.

Sunday with "Ted Lyons' day" for 39,000 Chicago fans and the veteran righthander clamped down on the Red Sockers with three-hit pitching. John Rigney allowed only five in the nightcap, which Joe Kuhel won for him with a two-run homer in the tenth.

In the National league the Cincinnati Reds stretched their first place margin to nine games by conquering the Brooklyn Dodgers 13-3. The second game of a doubleheader ended in a 1-1 tie when darkness halted play after 11 innings and will be tried over today. Catcher Ernie Lombardi of the Reds sprained an ankle in the first game.

The Pittsburgh Pirates knocked the New York Giants into Sixth place with a double victory 10-3 and 4-3.

The St. Louis Cardinals held third place, however, defeating the Phillies 7-0 and 3-1.

The Boston Bees and Chicago Cubs divided a doubleheader, Manny Salvo winning the first 7-3 with seven-hit pitching and Dizzy Dean coming back with a careful nine-hit job to take the second game 7-4.

Findlay Evens Playoff Series

LIMA —(AP)—Findlay's Oilers, who finished the Ohio State league season second to Lima, served notice on the champion Pandas last night that they couldn't win the playoff on reputation alone.

* * *

The Oilers pounded two Panda pitchers for an even dozen hits and a 6 to 4 victory in the opener of the playoff finals.

The teams square off tonight for their second contest in the four-out-of-seven game test.

Green Bay Takes Lead in National Pro Grid League

(By International News Service)

The standings of the clubs in the national professional football league at almost the outset of the season today found the Green Bay Packers, defending champions, leading the western division and the Washington Red Skins in front in the eastern circuit.

* * *

Paced by Cecil Isbell, former Purdue Boilermaker, the Packers beat Li'l Davey O'Brien and the Philadelphia Eagles, 27 to 20. Clark Hinkle accounted the winning scores by kicking two field goals in the third period. Davey proved himself a real threat in this league of behemoth backs and linemen by playing the entire sixty minutes, and completing 18 out of 40 passes, two of which were good for scores.

* * *

Although Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland's Brooklyn Dodgers lost a tough 24 to 17 verdict to the Red Skins in the nation's capital, his inaugural as a professional coach was pronounced a success by the 32,763 fans which packed Griffith stadium. After being routed in the first half, the Sutherland eleven began moving in the second half when it scored all its points and was deep in enemy territory on its way to tying the contest when the final gun sounded.

* * *

The New York Giants, winners of the eastern loop championship last year, had to stage a gallant comeback to earn a 10 to 0 tie with the rejuvenated and rechristened Pittsburgh Steelers.

* * *

The Chicago Cardinals, who inaugurated the pro season last Sunday in Pittsburgh by battling the Steelers to a 7 to 7 stalemate, fought the Detroit Lions to a 0 to 0 standoff yesterday at Buffalo. The game was played in a minor cloudburst, which made the field a virtual quagmire and at one point floodlights were turned on in order to allow the spectators to see what was taking place.

The teams were tied at 8 runs apiece in the sixth inning, but the Park nine scored twice in their half of the seventh to take a 10-8 lead. Shiloh held an 8-4 lead in the fourth but Liberty came back in the fifth to score four tallies and tie the score.

* * *

Beer and Dudley worked on the mound for the Liberty combine giving up nine hits, while Dawson was the losing moundsman, allowing 16 safeties. Wolf, Shiloh third baseman hit the only home run of the game.

Teams Open Loop Series

Columbus Meets Louisville In Opening Game.

(By Associated Press)

The Kansas City Blues, having tucked away their second straight American Association pennant, begin the fight tomorrow night for a berth in the little World series.

* * *

The Blues won the flag by four games, Columbus finishing second a game and a half ahead of Minneapolis. Louisville's so-so Colonels finished fourth, 13 and a half games back of the Millers.

When the Shaughnessy playoff semi-finals begin tomorrow night the Blues entertain Minneapolis and Louisville plays at Columbus in the best four-of-seven competition.

The association season closed yesterday with the champions winning a 12-9 victory from Minneapolis in the first half of a doubleheader. The second game ended in a 6-6 tie, called at the end of seven innings because of the Sunday curfew.

Columbus split a twin bill with Indianapolis. The Birds dropped the opener, 2 to 1, but picked up the second contest, 4 to 3.

Louisville and Toledo broke even in a bargain bill the Colonels winning the first, 13 to 2, and dropping the nightcap, 4 to 3.

Milwaukee lost a chance to tie Toledo for seventh or push the Hens into the basement by losing the first game to St. Paul, 4 to 3, in 11 isnings. The Brewers won the second, 2 to 0.

Take Double Victory From Philadelphia

Feller Gives Up Two Hits In Annexing First Contest; Hold Game Lead.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Bob Feller's perfect control and plenty of fight in his mates pulled the Indians out of their tailspin and gave them a full-game grasp on American league leadership today.

The Tribe's return to the top came with a twin victory over the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday, Feller shutting out the visitors 5 to 0 with a two-hit performance in the opener and the Indians coming from behind twice to take the nightcap, 8 to 5.

* * *

Cleveland took advantage of the misfortunes which beset its two closest rivals. The second-place Detroit Tigers lost to Washington while St. Louis defeated the New York Yankees in both ends of a doubleheader.

* * *

Manager Oscar Vitt summoned Mel Harder and Harry Eisenstat today to duplicate yesterday's feat in another bargain bill with the A's. Johnny Babich and Buck Ross were the Philadelphia selections.

Feller's exhibition of control in the first game yesterday had the fans calling it the greatest pitching stint of his career.

Not a single Mackman got a base on balls as Feller turned in his 25th victory, and for seven and one-third innings he held the A's hitless, facing only 28 batters.

"My control was just about perfect," the fireballer admitted in the showers. "It was only the second game I ever have pitched without giving a base on balls."

* * *

It looked as if Feller would ring up the second no-hitter of his career after retiring the first 22 batters in order. Then Dick Siebert, who deprived the Cleveland ace of a no-hitter in the eighth inning of a game at Philadelphia July 12, hit a pitch on the handle, just out of the reach of Second Baseman Ray Mack.

* * *

The Athletics' other hit came in the ninth—a single by Frankie Hayes.

Teams Seek Match Title

Eight-Man Clubs Clash at Camp Perry Today.

CAMP PERRY —(AP)— Eight-man teams, armed with 30 caliber rifles, fire down the 1,000-yard range at the national rifle matches today in pursuit of the Herrick trophy, won last year by the U. S. marines with a perfect score.

* * *

All contestants rested yesterday after a week of constant competition. William J. Coffman, infantry sergeant of Fort Leavenworth, Kas., scored 289 of 300 Saturday to defeat 1,650 marksmen and win the title of the nation's best marksman with the 30 caliber rifle.

The infantry, which copped three firsts in service rifle matches, set a new record in winning the national team pistol championship withthe service 45 caliber. Their score was 1343 of 1500, replacing the mark of 1335 they set in 1938. The Marines won last year.

Heroes and Goats

(By International News Service)

HEROES—Bob Feller, Indians, whose two-hit pitching in the first game of a double-header helped Cleveland to climb back into first place in the American league; Joe Grace, Browns, whose homer enabled St. Louis to make a clean sweep of a doubleheader with the Yankees.

GOATS—Joe Gordon, Yankees, whose two errors started New York on its downfall in the opener of a double-header; Porter Vaughan, Athletics, whose wildness paved the way for Philadelphia's loss in the first game of a twin-bill.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE.

WASHINGTON — The biggest bargain since the Indians got short-changed for the Island of Manhattan is being offered here in Washington on Sundays by a launderer turned sports promoter, one George Preston Marshall.

* * *

Using the Washington, Redskins, a professional football team as a front, no-blueing Marshall is running hog wild as a master mind of Al Fresco foolishness. It is just a question of time until he is grouped with P. T. Barnum, Billy Rose, C. C. Pyle, Father Divine and Tex Rickard.

* * *

The Redskins opened the pro season against the Brooklyn Dodgers in Griffith Stadium here yesterday, and the only thing that was lacking to make it a circus was sawdust, three or four of the flying Wallendas, a halfback who could off-tackle in an elephant's howdah, and two seals playing America on a cornet. And the hottest tip around town is that Marshall will have supplied these missing items before the New York Giants come in next week.

The Redskins won the game, 24 to 17, and had the game been staged in normal surroundings I would tell you of Dr. Jock Sutherland's debut as a professional coach, the great passing of Sammy Baugh, the superb debut of Banks MacFadden, and the courage of Ace Parker in playing on what amounts to a broken leg.

But the game was incidental. It was nothing more than an incident in the afternoon show staged by leave-out-the starch Marshall. It is a tribute to Marshall's organizing ability that time for the game was found at all, and that the customers weren't told that, owing to the tremendous amount of entertainment engaged by We-sew-on-buttons Marshall, the football game would have to be eliminatd.

These are a few of the educational items that Marshall provided for the 32,000 customers yesterday:

A full-sized wigwam, so accurate in construction that only a descendant of Sitting Bull with a degree of architecture from M. I. T. could have done the blueprints.

A wigwam (the same one mentioned above) full of swing musicians, and so hot on the reeds and trumpets that the feathers in their hair and the fringes on their leggings were pecking and rug-cutting for four quarters.

A 105-piece band, rigged out in Indian costumes that would get its members shot as prowlers on the first Indian reservation they ever walked on.

* * *

A pair of bagpipers, who, despite the cry of the crowd, insisted on bagpiping in the dead center of the field.

* * *

There were other attractions but there is a limit to what a reporter has to report to his readers.

Toss me those smelling salts, Anastasia. I'm plum wore out.

Cincinnati Selling Tickets; Cleveland Orders Ducats

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— The Cincinnati baseball club today advertised it would accept reservations for World series tickets—contingent, of course, upon the Reds winning the National League pennant.

* * *

The club will receive applications by mail only for the first, second and sixth games to be played at Crosley Field.

* * *

Tickets are sold in sets for all three games and none will be sold for single games. Reserved grand stand seats for the three games are $16.95. Only two seats will be sold to a purchaser.

In the event the series does not go six games, purchasers will get refunds on unplayed games.

Orders should be addressed to World Series Department, Cincinnati Reds, P. M. Box 839, Cincinnati, O.

The management pointed out that acceptance of an order is not evidence that the order can be filled. Orders must be accompanied by certified check or money order. No personal checks nor cash will be accepted.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Pennant fever, blazing anew in Cleveland as a result of yesterday's double win over Philadelphia, brought the announcement today from C. C. Slapnicka, vice president of the Indians, that World series tickets had been ordered printed for the club by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis.

* * *

The order covers 81,000 seats at Municipal Stadium for three games scheduled in the winning American League city and will be filled about Sept. 25.

* * *

Dates of games if the series is held here will be Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 4, 5 and 6. The first two games will be played in the National League city.

CHAPTER XIX

"I'll take the typing job you offered me and a working girl's apartment, and since my formal education was so badly neglected, I'll take some courses when the fall classes open. Edwina Burke with books under her arm and maybe horn-rimmed spectacles. Edwina Burke learning about political economy and what really caused the Civil war." She shook her head.

"I'm not making fun. I like it." And her eyes, rested, calm and bright, flew to her father's portrait. "He'd like it, too. He had a great respect for learning and he had so little education. You know, Norman, when the house is sold and my debts are all paid, I'm going to have something over. I've been frowning over figures. I'm going to invest my little capital. I've finished my speech. What's on your mind?"

Leaning forward with a tall crystal glass in his hand, he said, "Maybe I ought to skip it altogether since it doesn't matter one way or the other. But Carol just told me that you told her you and I were going to be married . . ."

"Carol Tallant? Yes, Norman, I did. And it wasn't meant to be a monstrous lie, believe me. I had so stuffed myself with the belief that we were, that my scheme couldn't fail, it just slipped out that day. But I thought better of it and didn't let my optimism run away with me again. You were out to the quarry tonight? How are the new lights?"

"During the storm the lights—the lights went out."

"Does it matter that I told Carol that?" Edwina said, concern in her voice.

Norman was so unlike himself, looked worried and preoccupied, Edwina took her little white-shod feet off the divan, put them on the rug and leaned forward intently. "I didn't mean to deceive Carol, Norman. It was the crazy mood I was in—scared and desperate. Just to say it made me believe I was going to marry you. Please say something. Don't make me feel that I've let you down, you of all people. I'll explain to Carol . . . ."

"Oh, it doesn't matter, Edwina. I'm sorry I brought it up. I wasn't trying to check up on either you or Carol. Forget it. Let's play double solitaire."

"All right. Has the rain stopped?"

He said, queerly, "The storm is over and the lights are probably on at the quarry. It was a regular blackout and tons of rain. People were trapped in the bathhouses and the few who ventured out got soaked wandering around looking for their cars. Yes, the storm is over."

* * *

They played double solitaire for quite a long time although at the very beginning Edwina saw that Norman's mind was not on the game and that his efforts to be amusing and interested were forced and flat. Several times she almost stopped the game but hesitated, thinking that she had no right to intrude upon his thoughts and that it would be rude of her to question. And frequently her mind wandered happily, lazily into the months to come and she saw herself, busy and contented, learning to do things she had never had to do, and liking the conquest of small inconsequential things heretofore ignored. She would learn to cook and to make her own clothes and balance a budget, and she would be, for the first time since she was a child, an anonymous person who owed nothing to anyone. And she would make friends of girls as alone as she . . .

It would be fun, and, as Norman had said, a challenge. Nothing could frighten you when you were young and strong and ambitious. And she would come back to Newton to see Amy Durfee. And she would come back, not as she had this time, but as a person who had given something to Newton . . .

When she glanced at Norman again and saw his eyes distant, his fine hands still, she said, "Let's stop, darling. You're not thinking about it. And I have a strong suspicion that it's my turn to do something for you. What is it? You look—well, stricken is the word—as if a blow had almost knocked you out. Bad news from New York? I remember what you said the other night about its being much easier to push somebody else over a fence than to get over it by yourself . . ."

* * *

He got up, walked the length of the room, then came back to her again.

"Edwina, what sort of person is Alan Harding? Or don't you know him very well?"

Did she know Alan . . .

"I used to know him very well. Why?"

But even as she asked she knew all at once what the combination of desperation and false hopes had not let her see until now.

"Don't you know? No, I suppose you don't. It's a tribute to my ability to wear a false face."

"You love Carol . . ." She frowned, her eyes troubled. "You love Carol, Norman. That's it, isn't it? No, I didn't know. Your false face and my being so mixed up with my own problems and Carol's being engaged to Alan."

His smile was that of a hurt, puzzled boy, grimly amused.

"What do I do now," he said, "go out on a good spree? The first time I saw her, the day we both came, I thought she was the loveliest thing I'd ever seen. But the next day we went on a picnic together and I knew then that she had something more than beauty. When a man tells a girl the story of his life, when he wants her to know him, it must be love. I wanted to tell her everything about myself, the things you never tell any one. I didn't of course. Good reasons—Alan and the fact that she held me off. She's . . ."

Edwina said, "Don't try to explain love, darling. No one can. In love, two and two don't make four. It's the one thing for which no one can find a formula. It's still boy meets girl and no power on earth can explain it. I'm not guessing. I know. Why didn't we fall in love? The stage was set. But we didn't. I think Carol's one of the loveliest things I've ever seen, too, and you're the man I wish I could love and can't. So you found the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow here in Newton—late in May, wasn't it?"

"I've seen her and touched her and kissed her. But that's all there is—and that's all there's ever going to be."

* * *

He smiled again. "You made one inopportune entrance in your life, Edwina. The day you came to my house and found us together, the day you told her you and I were going to be married. I had just kissed her then and I was going to say it all. When you came, I couldn't. And when I telephoned her after she got home, she apologized for the whole thing! Apologized!

"I saw her tonight at the quarry and we said goodbye, good luck and all that sort of thing. Maybe I should be a better loser. But there have been times when I've felt she was in something that she couldn't get out of. A girl like Carol doesn't steal kisses in dark corners and then go off blithely and marry another chap. That's why I asked you about Alan Harding? What sort of person is he?"

An odd smile played about her bright mouth. She reached for a cigaret and he stood over her and lighted it. Then she curled up on the divan again and looked up at him, her expression amused and yet a little sad.

"A former wife should know, shouldn't she?"

"Former wife!"

"Yes. You'd better sit down. This is a long story, Norman, but it's not a secret. I'm surprised you haven't heard. I thought it was one of the first things that greeted a newcomer here. It was a juicy scandal that still sets tongues wagging occasionally. I suppose you haven't heard because, when I wasn't with you, the people here didn't want to nip a budding romance—so they thought. Very considerate of them. That's mean of me. I'm sorry."

"You were married to Alan Harding."

"Yes. And you ask what sort of a person is he. I can tell you what he was five years ago. I can tell you almost, but not quite, because I don't think anyone has ever reached the depths of him or understood him completely. But five years ago when I loved him he was sweet and high-principled and honest—and innocent where girls were concerned. He had faith and ideals, and he wanted to do something wonderful for humanity, all that a good lawyer is able to do. But there was a streak of cruelty in him, too. I knew it when he struck me . . ."

Norman said, "Suppose you start at the beginning . . ."

She shook her head. "It was the beginning, the beginning of the end of the Edwina Burke that you and I buried a couple of nights ago. It began at a party when I looked across a room and saw the only boy who hadn't dance with me—Alan in dinner clothes that didn't fit his big shoulders, rented clothes, Alan very blond, very aloof, very cold . . ."

* * *

While she spoke she was conscious neither of time nor of Norman. Her words flowed, making lucid pictures of a girl pursuing a boy, tempting him, teasing him, begging him and loving him with all the recklessness and impulsiveness of the 18-year-old Edwina. Her drives to the university to see him, her phone calls, her notes. And Alan's indifference to her, his scorn for her money. Then the night of her coming-out party and the events which had swiftly followed.

She said, "Its difficult to look back through five years to that time. Too much has happened since. You see, I thought of him as a god almost. He had more self-control than any one I've ever known. But he was a puzzle to me. He is still. He lives within himself and you never know what goes on behind the fine looking exterior. People who have suffered and struggled are that way, I suppose. I don't want to be unfair to him. The things he told me about his beliefs and ideals I shall never forget — but I shall never forget either that he struck me. He seemed to be a boy at war with himself—two enemy camps facing each other across his mind. I was conscious of a suffering in him I didn't understand." She paused. "Sometimes I thought he loved me. But that wasn't true. He never loved me."

She went on after a moment, "A person like that is attractive, interesting. It's like wanting to take a watch apart to see what makes it tick. And he's very good looking. That night at the club, when we walked outside together, he turned on me as if I were a snake in his path. He hates me, loathes me. And from what I can learn, he hasn't done much in the way of helping humanity, but he has done a great deal to help Alan Harding. People like him because he's quiet and smart. I probably haven't answered your question, Norman. It's the best I can do."

"I wonder if Carold could do it any better . . ."

"Alan learned about girls from me. He's probably been smarter with Carol. And yet the things about him which attracted me probably attracted her. I can't blame her for wanting him; I did."

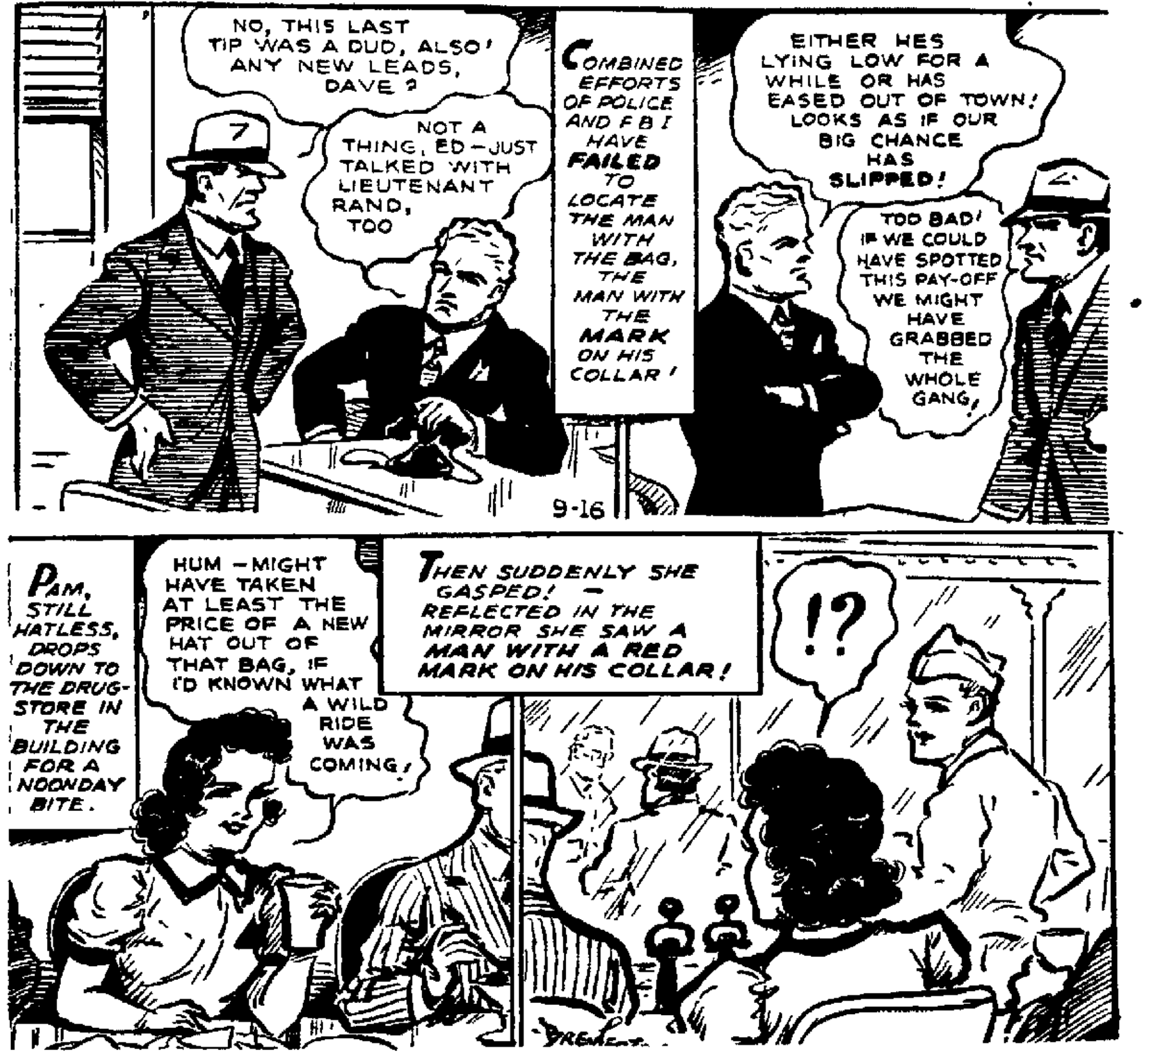
PAM—In the Mirror!

By A. W. Brewerton



NO, THIS LAST TIP WAS A DUD, ALSO! ANY NEW LEADS, DAVE?
NOT A THING, ED—JUST TALKED WITH LIEUTENANT RAND, TOO COMBINED EFFORTS OF POLICE AND F B I HAVE FAILED TO LOCATE THE MAN WITH THE BAG, THE MAN WITH THE MARK ON HIS COLLAR!
EITHER HES LYING LOW FOR A WHILE OR HAS EASED OUT OF TOWN! LOOKS AS IF OUR BIG CHANCE HAS SLIPPED!
TOO BAD! IF WE COULD HAVE SPOTTED THIS PAY-OFF WE MIGHT HAVE GRABBED THE WHOLE GANG,

BUYING TOUCHES OFF SELECTIVE UPWARD SWING

Steels, Rails Paces Stock List Drawing Support In Market Today.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Buying of steels and rails touched off a selective upward push in today's stock market.

Drawing support were U. S. steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Anaconda, American Smelting, Westinghouse, Dow Chemical, Loft and Montgomery Ward.

Carrier loans edged forward in the bond department. Commodities were a shade mixed. Securities at London held to a steady course.

Consumers were exerting more pressure on mills, the review said, owing to broadening demand and growing concern over deliveries.

Motor stocks came in for study as observers suggested September production of 1941 models might exceed 300,000, or around 250 per cent greater than the August output.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

* * *

This is the thoughtful filming of a portion of a thoughtful book, a story of America from its beginning. Not at all strangely, it is therefore a timely story whenever the question arises as to what all the talking is about today.

"The Howards" throws intimate light on the state of affairs which led to the American Revolution. Through its romantic principals, it contrasts the growing spirit of democracy with entrenched snobbery and links the internal struggle, the confusion of domestic disagreement, with the larger struggle for independence.

Matt Howard (Grant) is a rough backwoodsman, ill equipped for the social graces of Williamsburgh, then capital of Virginia. Jane Peyton (Scott) is the charming aristocrat of a family best described by its horror when it learns that Howard has actually worked in the fields with his hands. Fleetwood Peyton (Hardwicke), Jane's brother, symbolizes the rigid aristocratic order, wealthy adherents to form and privilege.

* * *

Jane's heart triumphs over her background, she marries Matt and they begin a life in the back country. Jane enters willingly enough into the toil involved but strictly for the sake of lifting her and her husband high above their neighbors. Matt, the democratic, the liberty-lover, humors her until the showdown — the call to fight for American freedom. He is a man who heeds the challenge; Jane and her family see only the wreckage the fight will bring, and which it does, to their interests.

Touching and significant is Matt's relations to his two boys. To Peyton, the cripple, he is cold. To James, the strong, he pins all hope—until ultimately, in stress of war, he finds in Peyton the champion of his own ideas.

The film is "talky," yet for its picture of Colonial life it holds interest. Grant, once you forget his comedy past, is impressive. The work of Miss Scott excels her "Our Town" debut, and Richard Carlson is so human as the young Jefferson that you can almost forget the historical aspects of the character. Sir Cedric takes the acting cake for his cold, embittered portrait of Fleetwood.

* * *

"FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT." Joel McCrea, Laraine Day, Herbert Marshall, George Sanders, Albert Basserman, Robert Benchley.

* * *

Because of Alfred Hitchcock's never-let-you-down direction, this topical mystery thriller is the Movie-of-the-Month.

* * *

"KIT CARSON." Jon Hall, Lynn Bari, Dana Andrews, Ward Bond, Harold Huber.

All about the frontier scout, and General Fremont, and the birth of the California republic. The grandeur of the scenery all but compensates for the abundant "ham" and directorial clinches which clutter up the foreground.

Rush To Marriage Results In Tragic Deaths.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A quarrel over the date for their wedding was blamed today for the murder and suicide which left Miss Florence Tucker, 21, a nurse, and James Bacon, a seaman attached to the Norfolk naval hospital at Portsmouth, Vt., dead within 24 hours of the time they became engaged.

Bacon gave Florence an engagement ring upon her graduation from the Brooklyn state hospital nurses training school Saturday. Early Sunday morning he crept into the girl's bedroom and fired a bullet into her head as she slept and then ended his life with the same gun.

ARTILLERY AND PLANES BATTER BRITISH SHORES

Big Air Battle Waged Over London as Invasion Threat Grows.

in London during the third alarm, but the hundreds of batteries were silent throughout the second.

These thrusts followed a night and a half of night attack and a series of Sunday mass raids in which the British claimed their greatest air victory of any single day of the war—185 German planes shot down on British soil.

Interspaced in the long night attack was a half-hour "silent" raid in which large numbers of time bombs or duds were dropped on London without exploding.

The government acknowledged that many buildings in London had been damaged during the dusk-to-dawn raid, exceeded only in duration by the nine-hour and 40-minute attack one week ago.

Against the 185 German planes reported shot down the British said they had lost only 25 of their own fighters, and declared that the pilots of 12 of these were safe.

The greatest previous day's "bag" of German aircraft was recorded on Aug. 15, when the British said 180 were downed.

The raiders also struck at numerous other areas in northwest and southeast England and south Wales, but the government said that most of the bombs fell in rural areas and that damage was not extensive. One bomber was reported shot down during the night.

Reports from various parts of the London area indicated that time bombs were reported in showers and observers speculated that the Germans were adopting new tactics in an effort to disrupt life in the capital.

During the daylight raids Sunday two heavy bombs and a number of incendiaries were dropped on Buckingham palace, already bombed twice previously.

The king and queen were not at the palace when the projectiles came screaming from the skies. None of the missiles exploded, but one fell in the queen's apartment, causing considerable damage.

A British fighter pounced upon the German plane which loosed the bombs on the palace and literally shot it to pieces. The Nazi pilot fell dead on the roof of a nearby building, his parachute unopened.

The British plane also was damaged in the fight and the pilot bailed out, receiving a hero's welcome as he parachuted to safety in the same neighborhood.

While London's defenders were fighting furiously yesterday to ward off attacks on the capital, a "suicide squad" unearthed an 1,100 pound time-bomb which for days had menaced historic St. Paul's cathedral, trundled it out of town in a truck and detonated it harmlessly in the Hackney marshes.

While the Germans were hammering steadily at Britain, the Royal Air Force struck back Saturday night and Sunday morning at Nazi bases in Germany, northern France, Holland and Belgium.

Docks, warehouses and oil tanks all along the German side of the channel were heavily bombed, the air ministry reported.

One RAF pilot told of setting fire to a 5,000-ton merchant ship at Antwerp, where he said he saw more than 300 barges moored in the harbor—possibly in preparation for the long-threatened invasion of England.

The British Press association said that yesterday's aerial activity brought to 2,143 the number of German planes shot down over England since the war began.

Retaliation Attacks Made

BERLIN—(AP)—Despite adverse weather conditions German warplanes continued retaliatory attacks upon London during the night, the high command reported today, scoring direct hits on a gasworks at Bromley and industrial plants at Woolwich in addition to other objectives.

Port facilities at Dover and Portland and an airplane works at Southampton, all on the English channel coast, were hit by German bombs, the communique said.

"Fierce air battles developed in the course of these raids," it acknowledged.

Raids also were reported on ship convoys off the Irish, Scottish and English east coast in which, the high command said, two merchantmen totaling 18,000 tons were sunk, one was set afire and several damaged.

Another 8,000-ton merchantman was reported sunk in the English channel by a plane attacking at night.

The communique claimed 79 British planes were downed yesterday and acknowledged that 43 Nazi craft were missing. (The day's German losses were the greatest admitted thus far in the battle for Britain.)

Numerous new fires were reported set off by raids on Liverpool and Birmingham, the great west coast industrial cities which have been repeatedly attacked by the Nazi air force.

Authorized sources acknowledged that German bombers were meeting stiffening resistance to onslaughts on London, but they said the air force still was able to reach its objectives both by night and day. They promised the assault would be continued with undiminished vigor until Britain capitulates.

Since early morning, spokesman said, Nazi warplanes have been carrying out "rolling attacks" upon England, coming and going across the channel in a steady procession.

The increased resistance in the London area was said to have been achieved by the British at the expense of defenses in other parts of the island, which the Germans asserted had been robbed of anti-aircraft guns and fighter planes to bolster the forces around the capital.

New fires set by Nazi bombs were reported raging in the great dock areas along the Thames and the Germans said they would be kept blazing by never-ending relays of warplanes until London's industries and supply centers are paralyzed.

German anti-aircraft defenses were given credit for beating off another British attempt to retaliate on the Berlin area late last night and early today.

The Nazi capital had two air raid alarms, each of about 30 minutes, but authorities said that British planes which tried to approach the city were scattered by the outer defenses.

Berliners say that a British attempt at large scale reprisals for the continued bombing of London is certain to come and they took more or less as a matter of course the alarms which twice routed them from their beds.

A heavy concentration of air defenders about London was reported to have resulted in bitter fighting over the British capital yesterday, during which 71 British planes were said to have been destroyed by midnight. German losses were put at 34 planes.

(British sources estimated at this time that at least 175 German planes had been destroyed and put their own losses at 30.)

German pilots attacked Liverpool and cities in the industrial midlands and reported encountering little resistance there.

During Sunday's attacks on London, the Germans said, new fires were started at the Albert dock and the East and West India docks. A direct bomb hit was reported on a pumping station at Woolwich, London suburb famed for its arsenal, and on several power plants.

Airports, railways and harbors in southern England also were reported "effectively bombed."

British Bomb German Ports

LONDON —(INS)— Shuttling across the English channel in steady relays, British bombers today hammered German-held ports in northern France and the low countries.

Seeking to smash any invasion attempt in its infancy, the British raiders dropped their bombs on barges, steamers, docks, and military equipment.

Reports from British coast towns stated that the noise of the heavy exploding bombs could be heard from the continental coast—more than 20 miles away.

The glare of gigantic fires could be seen from the English cliffs despite the heavy haze which engulfed the channel.

The principal ports pounded were Antwerp, Ostend, Flushing, Dunkerque, Calais, and Boulogne.

Although the admiralty would not comment, it was unconfirmedly reported that British naval units were aiding the raid by shelling the coastal harbors.

German Press Attacks Sweden

BERLIN —(AP)— The German press launched a concentrated attack today on the Swedish government and press, charging that certain newspapers in Sweden deliberately insult Germany.

Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter headed the procession by finding fault with the Swedish government for reprimanding one paper which asserted that the British occupation forced in Iceland had resorted to terrorism, but failing to reprimand another which charged that terrorism was used in Germany.

Confer Today On W. Fourth Street Curbing Problem

City, state and WPA officials will meet this afternoon to look over and discuss progress of the Fourth street improvement, it was announced today by Mayor William J. Locke.

He said that Murray Shaffer, division highway engineer at Ashland, had agreed to meet with city officials and job supervisors to inspect part of the street now completed.

Among the things to be looked over, he said, would be the curb at Fourth and Walnut streets. He said a suggestion would be considered to raise the curb on the northwest corner. The curbing now is only a few inches high, insufficient to keep storm water from overflowing the sidewalk.

Meanwhile workmen closed off North Mulberry street this morning and began laying the brick intersection. It is expected that the street will be opened to traffic Thursday.

The two-block section between North Diamond and North Walnut streets was opened last week.

City officials said that when the street is completed North Main street will be closed to raise the brick center section of that street to the Fourth street crown.

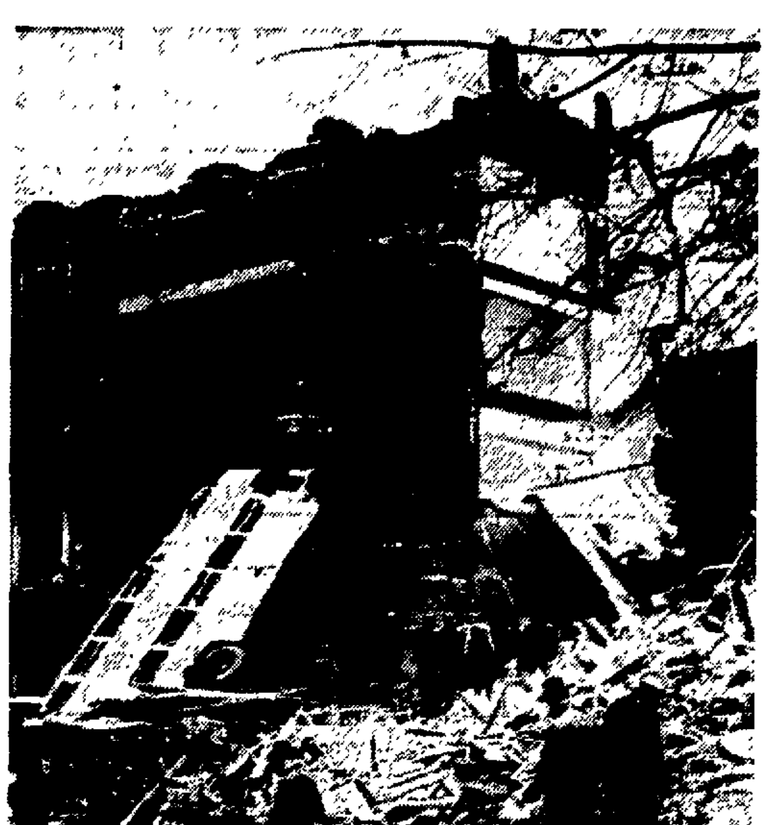
Nazi Bomb Hurls Bus In Air



Terrific power of the German bombs being dropped on London is demonstrated by this view of the British capital's business section. A big bus has been hurled against the side of a building by one of the high explosive blasts. Where building once stood at right is now only a mass of wreckage. tained heavy losses of men and equipment, it was claimed.

Occupation of Sollum, a British base near the Libyan-Egyptian frontier, was confirmed by the military bulletin.

A communique, issued earlier today, reported new Italian bombing attacks on Malta, British base in the Mediterranean.

The Rome radio said Italian dive bombers attacked the Halfar airdrome at Malta, destroying hangars and other equipment.

An official communique asserted Italian advance detachments had crossed the Egyptian frontier and engaged in heavy fighting.

(Editor's note: The British command in Cairo admitted the loss of ground near Sollum but said artillery fire and bombing raids inflicted heavy casualties on the Italians.)

Roberto Farinacci, well known Fascist writer, broadly hinted that German plans for an invasion of Britain may be dropped until next year. Writing in the newspaper Regima Fascisti, he said:

"The Germans allowed last winter to pass to make necessary preparations for the attack and advanced triumphantly in the spring. The same thing may happen in the case of England. Germany will carry out her decisive attack when in a position to win with the smallest possible sacrifice of human life."

British Admit Italian Gains

CAIRO —(AP)— The British acknowledged today that Italian columns, heavily bombarded from the air and running into a constant stream of fire from British armored cars, had pushed 25 miles into Egypt to the village of Buqbuq, on the coastal road.

Spain Hovers On Brink of War

BERLIN—(AP)—Ramon Serrano Suner, brother-in-law of Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain, arrived here today for conversations with Fuehrer Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop amid indications that Nationalist Spain is on the eve of some special understanding with the Rome-Berlin axis.

Many observers expressed belief Spain might enter the war on the side of Germany and Italy.

Hitler is to receive the Spaniard Tuesday.

(London quarters familiar with Spanish politics said the visit was highly significant in view of Italian pressure to allow Axis soldiers passage for an attack on British Gibraltar. A shakeup of the Spanish government was predicted.)

MRS. KAGEY, 66, DIES AT ASHLAND

defenses in other parts of England in order to strengthen the defense of London. This statement accompanied the admission that the Nazi airforce was encountering fierce and heroic resistance.

It is possible that the British have indeed diverted defensive forces to the protection of the capital. It is equally possible that the German claim is father to the wish. To my mind it is sure that part of the Nazi strategy will be to try to entice the Britons into weakening their defenses at some spot or spots against which the invaders will strike a lightning blow. This might account in part for the manner in which Hitler has concentrated his attack on London.

While all this was going on, there was another highly significant development in connection with Mussolini's thrust into Egypt over the inhospitable wastes of the Libyan desert. This was the appeal made by youthful King Farouk of Egypt to Moslems throughout the world to pray that Egypt may have peace.

In that appeal may lie a terrible menace to the Fascist chieftain. Should he cause a Mohammedan holy war against Italy he would have unleashed a whirlwind. That is an important point to watch.

One need only add that British influence over the millions of Arabs in the near east is vast, and that Egypt not only is England's ally, but virtually a protectorate. Moslem Turkey, with its powerful military force, also is allied to the British.

It seems to me that in the long run we get back to the idea that pretty much everything hinges on the German drive against England itself. If Hitler wins, Mussolini wins. If the Nazi leader loses, Mussolini will lose in a big way, for he hasn't at present the sea power to drive the English fleets to cover.

cinnati, Nancy, 13, and Janet, 10, his sisters, and Mrs. Clementine Sutloff of Cincinnati, believed to be a nurse.

The wreckage of the automobile was wrapped so tightly about the front of the locomotive that trainmen had to chain the auto to the tracks and back up to disengage it.

A blowtorch was used to cut the bodies of Hueck, Nancy and Mrs. Sutloff from the wreckage.

The four were returning on U. S. route 127 from a vacation trip to Michigan, where they had left Hueck's mother. Heuck was driving. The crossing was not protected at the time of the accident, about 4 a. m.

The train, west bound, ordinarily does not stop in Van Wert.

Another train-auto crash Sunday killed a father and his two children in worst of a series of week-end accidents.

The three—Albert Asbury, 67; his son, Charles, 25, and daughter, Mary, 18—died at a crossing 12 miles north of Hamilton.

Dwight Phillips, 19, of Mount Vernon died today of injuries received when his motorcycle was hit by an auto yesterday. Bertha Johnson, 16, riding with Phillips, suffered severe leg injuries.

Highway Patrolman G. P. Miller said the auto was forced into Phillips' path by another car, the driver of which did not stop.

Three Cleveland softball players were killed and five others injured in an automobile collision east of Lorain. The victims were George Balogh, jr., 19, Henry F. Janner and Frank Simcic, both 21. All were members of the Bona Felexis club which played a pickup game on the Lorain high school grounds.

Two double-death accidents were recorded. James Sommers, 18, and Clarence Brumbaugh, both of Montgomery county, died in the smash of their automobile against a roadside tree near Dayton. Walter Perry of Maineville and Donald Snider of Hopkinsville, both 17, were killed in a car collision near Cincinnati.

Other fatalities included: Warren—George Lewis, 70, struck by a motorcycle.

Cleveland — Motorcyclist John Sotka, 65, hit by an automobile, and Robert S. Wright, 25, socially-prominent amateur golfer, whose car struck a tree.

Akron—Carl J. Eddy, 76, hit by a car.

Troy—Mrs. Mellie J. Beals, 47, gored to death by a bull.

WIDOW, 61, DIES

Mrs. Elizabeth Alvord to Be Buried Tuesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Alvord, 61, of 151 Western avenue, widow of J. G. Alvord, died Sunday evening at the home. She had been ill several months.

Born on Prince Edward Island, Can., March 15, 1879, Mrs. Alvord had lived in Mansfield for 32 years. She was an active member of the Grace Episcopal church, Eastern Stars, Naomi chapter of the White Shrine, the W. B. A. of the Macabees and the U. S. W. V. Auxiliary.

Surviving are a son, Harrison J. Alvord, with whom she made her home; two brothers, Harry and David Vanderstine, and two sisters, Mrs. Laura McFee and Miss Marion Vanderstine all of Boston, Mass.

The body was removed to the Jones Memorial where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in charge of Rev. Glen Lewis. Private burial rites will be held in Mansfield cemetery.

eral mobilization of the National Guard since World war days.

Their commanders were under orders from Washington to concentrate the guardsmen in previously-announced training centers "as soon as practicable." National Guard bureau officials anticipated that all the men would be in camps within 10 days.

Before leaving their home armories, however, the 60,000 must undergo medical examinations, fill out required papers and pack clothing and equipment.

President Roosevelt ordered this initial contingent of guardsmen to be inducted under the regular army under the recently-enacted law empowering him to mobilize the full force of citizen-soldiers, totaling about 242,000 officers and men, for a year's training.

Additional guard units are to be ordered out later. Original army plans call for induction of all of them into the federal service by Jan. 1,, but whether this is still the schedule has not been disclosed.

War department officials told congress while the mobilization law was under consideration that it was essential to call out the guard as a preliminary to the compulsory military training program.

Today's mobilization involves units in 26 states: New York, New Jersey, North Carolina, Tennessee, South Carolina, Georgia, Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Wyoming, New Hampshire, Delaware, Illinois, Missouri, Massachusetss, Pennsylvania, Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Virginia and Arkansas.

Guardsmen below the rank of captain who have dependents were allowed 20 days from the date of the president's mobilization order, Sept. 1, to resign. Those under 18 will be discharged.

'DOODLEBUG' TRAIN CREW BLAMED FOR CRASH THAT TOOK 43 LIVES

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Failure of the crew to execute orders was responsible for the train crash near Akron on July 31, in which 43 persons were killed, the state utilities commission announced today.

Chairman George C. McConnaughey said the commission concurred in the partial report of Chief Inspector Harry Evans and would go to the crash scene later this week to view the type of equipment used and survey the premises before making a final report.

A gasoline-electric "Doodlebug" —single-coach train — crashed head-on with a northbound double-header freight train, although both the engineer and conductor of the passenger coach had orders to take a siding and permit the freight to pass.

"It was a clear failure of manpower," said Chairman McConnaughey.

He declined to say whether the utilities commission is considering placing a ban on equipment of the "Doodlebug" type.

Inspector Evans reported that the engineer suffered a "total lapse of memory" and that the conductor was busy collecting tickets immediately before the fatal crash. He submitted facts gathered in his investigation without accompanying them with recommendations.

The commission will investigate the desirability of installing automatic block signals on the stretch of track where the wreck occurred.

HOW TO GET A $100 LOAN
WITHOUT ENDORSERS

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $4.46 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service.

YOU can get a personal loan—without red tape or delay—if you can repay in small monthly instaliments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to acquaint us with your problem. You need no bankable security—no endorsers or guarantors.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. Thus you may choose the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.46 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.26 each, or a total of only $105.04, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full.

Same rate to everyone

Installments shown in the table repay everything. These installments include charges at Household's rate of 2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $300, and 1½% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $300. This rate is substantially less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Household has only this one rate—the same for everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

Simple to borrow

You get your Household Finance loan in a simple, private transaction. We require no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) You are spared the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And no questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives.

Considerate treatment

You may expect every consideration in case of sickness or unemployment while paying on a Household Finance loan. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans. This action was taken only as protection against fraud.

If a loan can help you, phone or visit us for further information. No obligation.

17 Drivers Cited on Traffic Counts Over Week-End

11 GET FINES, ONE GIVEN 30 DAYS IN JAIL

Cases of Five Other Motorists To Be Heard Today; One Forfeits Bond.

Seventeen drivers were arrested over the week-end by state highway patrolmen and city police. Eleven were fined while the cases of five others will be heard today. One forfeited bond for non-appearance.

Frank Thomas, 37, R. D. 1, Lucas, lost his driving rights for a year, was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail when he pleaded guilty in common pleas court to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. Judge C. H. Huston suspended the fine.

Thomas was arrested Saturday on U. S. route 30 east of Mansfield by highway patrolmen.

Others fined and the charges were: John Mui, jr., 29, of 64 Raymond street, unsafe driving, $20 and costs; Glenn W. Wilson, 28, R. D. 1, Lexington, insufficient lights, $20; Don D. Myers, 36, of 11 Beymiller street, speeding, $10; William W. Bittinger, R. D. 4, Mansfield, failure to observe stop sign, $5; James White, 304 High street; no operator's license, $15; Jack R. Tarry, Elyria, unsafe driving, $10; W. R. Bawser, 668 Springmill street, passing on wrong side, $10; W. L. Gray, Woodstock, speeding, $15; M. E. Barry, Richwood, unsafe driving, $10; W. P. Long, Greecamp, failure to observe stop sign, $5.

Earl M. Landis, 23, Brockville, arrested for unsafe driving, forfeited a $25 bond when he failed to appear in municipal court.

Cases to be heard today include Richard E. May, Cleveland, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol; R. H. Roebuck, Bexley, failure to observe stop sign; John Manning, Galion, failure to observe stop sign; F. F. Foust, R. D. 2, Lexington, insufficient lights, and Eldon Kirkpatrick, Ashland, unsafe driving.

Weekly Review of Defense Progress Being Organized

WASHINGTON—(INS)—In an effort to give the American public "a weekly review of national defense developments," the White House disclosed today that it was undertaking to organize a "round-table" of nationally known radio commentators for that purpose.

Wythe Williams, Greenwich, Conn., Times editor and radio commentator, saw President Roosevelt Saturday, presidential secretary Stephen T. Early announced.

Later, through Early, the president asked Williams to see whether he could not organize a weekly round-table discussion which would present latest details of the "total preparedness" drive.

WEIRTON STEEL ACCUSES NLRB OF PREJUDICE

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The Weirton Steel company, in a 129-page bill of exceptions plus 93 pages of appendixes, today accused the national labor relations board of being biased and prejudiced in its 97-page proposed decision finding the company had violated the Wagner labor act.

In their exceptions to the board's proposed decision filed July 12, Weirton attorneys challenged the right of the board to make any decision in the case because it is alleged the board issued a complaint against the company in an effort to aid the CIO steel workers organizing committee, which filed unfair labor charges, to organize Weirton employes.

The company's lengthy and detailed exceptions were in keeping with the record-breaking Weirton labor case, which produced eight million words and 40,000 pages of testimony at hearings which started Aug. 16, 1937 and ended Jan. 30, 1939. Sessions were held here, at New Cumberland, W. Va., Steubenville, O., and Pittsburgh.

Today was the deadline set for compliance with the board's order directing Weirton to disestablish independent organizations among its 12,000 workers at Steubenville and Weirton, W. Va.; to cease discouraging membership in the SWOC; and to reinstate with back pay 17 employes discharged in 1936.

In the original complaint, it had been alleged that 300 employes had been discriminated against because of union activity.

If the exceptions fail to change the board's decision and the company does not comply with the board's order, the case is expected to go to a U. S. circuit court of appeals for an enforcement order, and perhaps later go to the U. S. Supreme court.

Head of the Weirton company is E. T. Weir, critic of New Deal labor policies and chairman of the Republican party's finance committee.

Sharp criticism was directed by Weirton attorneys against Trial Examiner Edward G. Smith, who was accused of "conspiring" with board attorneys to have Chief Defense Counsel Clyde A. Armstrong ousted midway in the hearings for, according to Smith, "defiant, contemptuous and contumacious behavior."

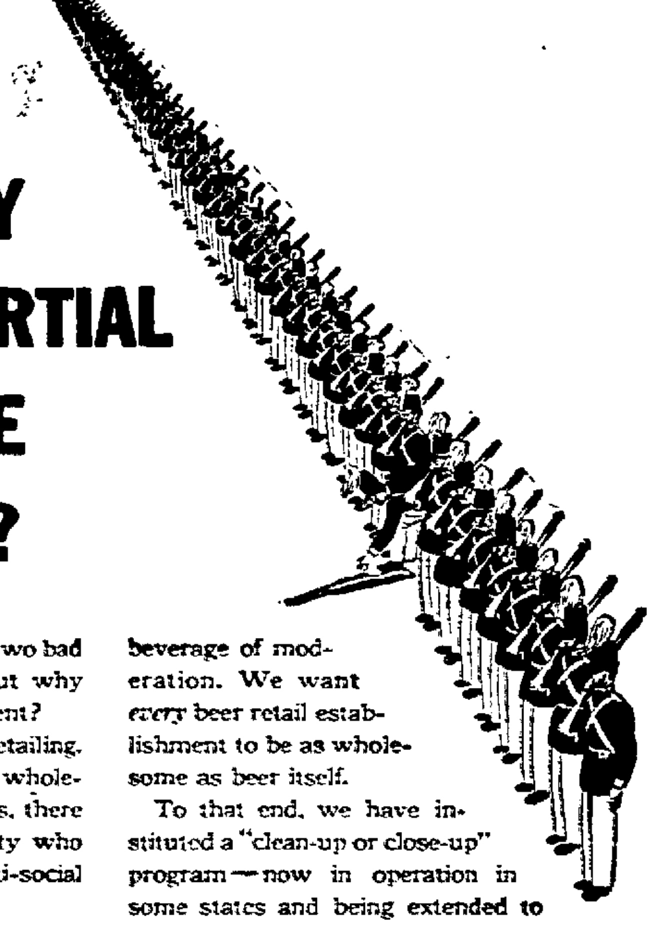
THE RECORD.... Facts That Concern You No. 22 of a series

...BUT WHY COURT-MARTIAL THE WHOLE REGIMENT?



There are bound to be one or two bad soldiers in every regiment. But why court-martial the whole regiment?

The same applies to beer retailing. Out of hundreds of thousands of wholesome, law-abiding beer retailers, there is bound to be a small minority who disobey the law or permit anti-social conditions.

To protect your right to drink good beer, the Brewing Industry wants even this small minority of undesirable retailers eliminated entirely. Beer is a refreshing, appetizing beverage — the beverage of moderation. We want every beer retail establishment to be as wholesome as beer itself.

To that end, we have instituted a "clean-up or close-up" program — now in operation in some states and being extended to others. We'd like to tell you about it in an interesting free booklet.

Ready for Selective Conscription

CONGRESS has finally authorized selective conscription for military training, in accordance with President Roosevelt's urgent request for this action as a part of this nation's defense program.

Senate and house reached a compromise on age range of prospective draftees by making it 21 to 35 inclusive, which will require registration of more than sixteen million men between these ages.

There is also provision for voluntary enlistment of men between the ages of 18 and 36 for a year of military training, with increase of pay to privates, either volunteers or draftees, to $30 a month.

Nothing except belief that there is a dire need for quick strengthening of United States military forces, based on consideration of totalitarian aggressions in Europe within the past year, could justify such drastic and precedent-shattering action as is now being taken.

Passed by a vote of 47-25 in the senate and 232-124 in the house, the result was sharply at odds with the views of Ohio senators and congressmen. Both Ohio senators opposed the draft, as did also the Ohio delegation in congress, with a couple of exceptions.

Only by events of the future can the wisdom of opponents of the draft be fairly judged, for it now appears that quickest possible preparations to meet aggressive action from abroad, in the event of Great Britain's withdrawal from the British Isles, is the only logical course for the United States to pursue.

It cannot be doubted that the United States is viewed by Hitler as an "enemy nation," just as much as during its participation in the first World war, and that his ambitious plans for totalitarian world-domination includes the Western Hemisphere in general and this country in particular.

If, by adequate preparations now, in both military equipment and trained manpower, actual conflict on this side of the Atlantic ocean can be prevented later, individual inconvenience and hardships, and tremendous money costs, will be minor matters as compared with the suffering and destruction that would result from such ruthless warfare as has already devastated much of Europe and is now being unleashed against the British Isles.

Death Ends Notable Career

DEATH ended a notable public career yesterday when William Brockman Bankhead, speaker of the national house of representatives, passed away with unexpected suddenness at Naval hospital in Washington.

Member of a distinguished Alabama family, Speaker Bankhead was reared in a political atmosphere and found inspiration in the public service of his father who was sent to congress and later to the senate, after having been a captain in the Confederate army during the war between the states.

Born on a small plantation when Alabama was still suffering from the after-effects of war, Speaker Bankhead's boyhood education was gained in log schoolhouses where school terms were only three months long, but he was later to go to the University of Alabama and take a law course at Georgetown.

Elected to congress in 1916, Speaker Bankhead followed his father's advice to "stay on the floor of the house and learn the rules," a method which later won him recognition as one of the ablest parliamentarians in congress and finally opened the way to the post of speaker, to which he was chosen in 1936 to succeed the late Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee.

Throughout his career Speaker Bankhead proved an efficient legislator, although on several occasions his activities have been handicapped by poor health, notably in 1934 when he was to have been majority house leader but was kept abed by a heart ailment during the entire session.

His loss will be keenly felt among his associates in congress and in the national administration, the policies of which he ardently supported.

Time Capsules and Pyramids

THAT "time capsule" which has aroused so much interest, serious and cynical, is to be buried at last in New York. It is expected to show posterity, several millenniums hence, how antiquity lived and what it did and knew and thought. And that very thing may happen as planned, although offhand it would appear that it will require a remarkable degree of luck for such a store of relics to be dug up as per schedule, by the hypothetical inhabitants of that distant time.

It doesn't seem quite so grotesque, however, when you think of the ancient Egyptians. They may have had much the same sort of idea. In their burial tombs they filed away all sorts of relics and information of their times. They are supposed to have done it primarily to help the departed souls on their journey to wherever they were bound, but that purpose alone wouldn't explain the vast pyramids they piled up over the heads of the deceased.

The Egyptians made sure of posterity's attention by the enormous and indestructible monuments they reared over their time capsules.

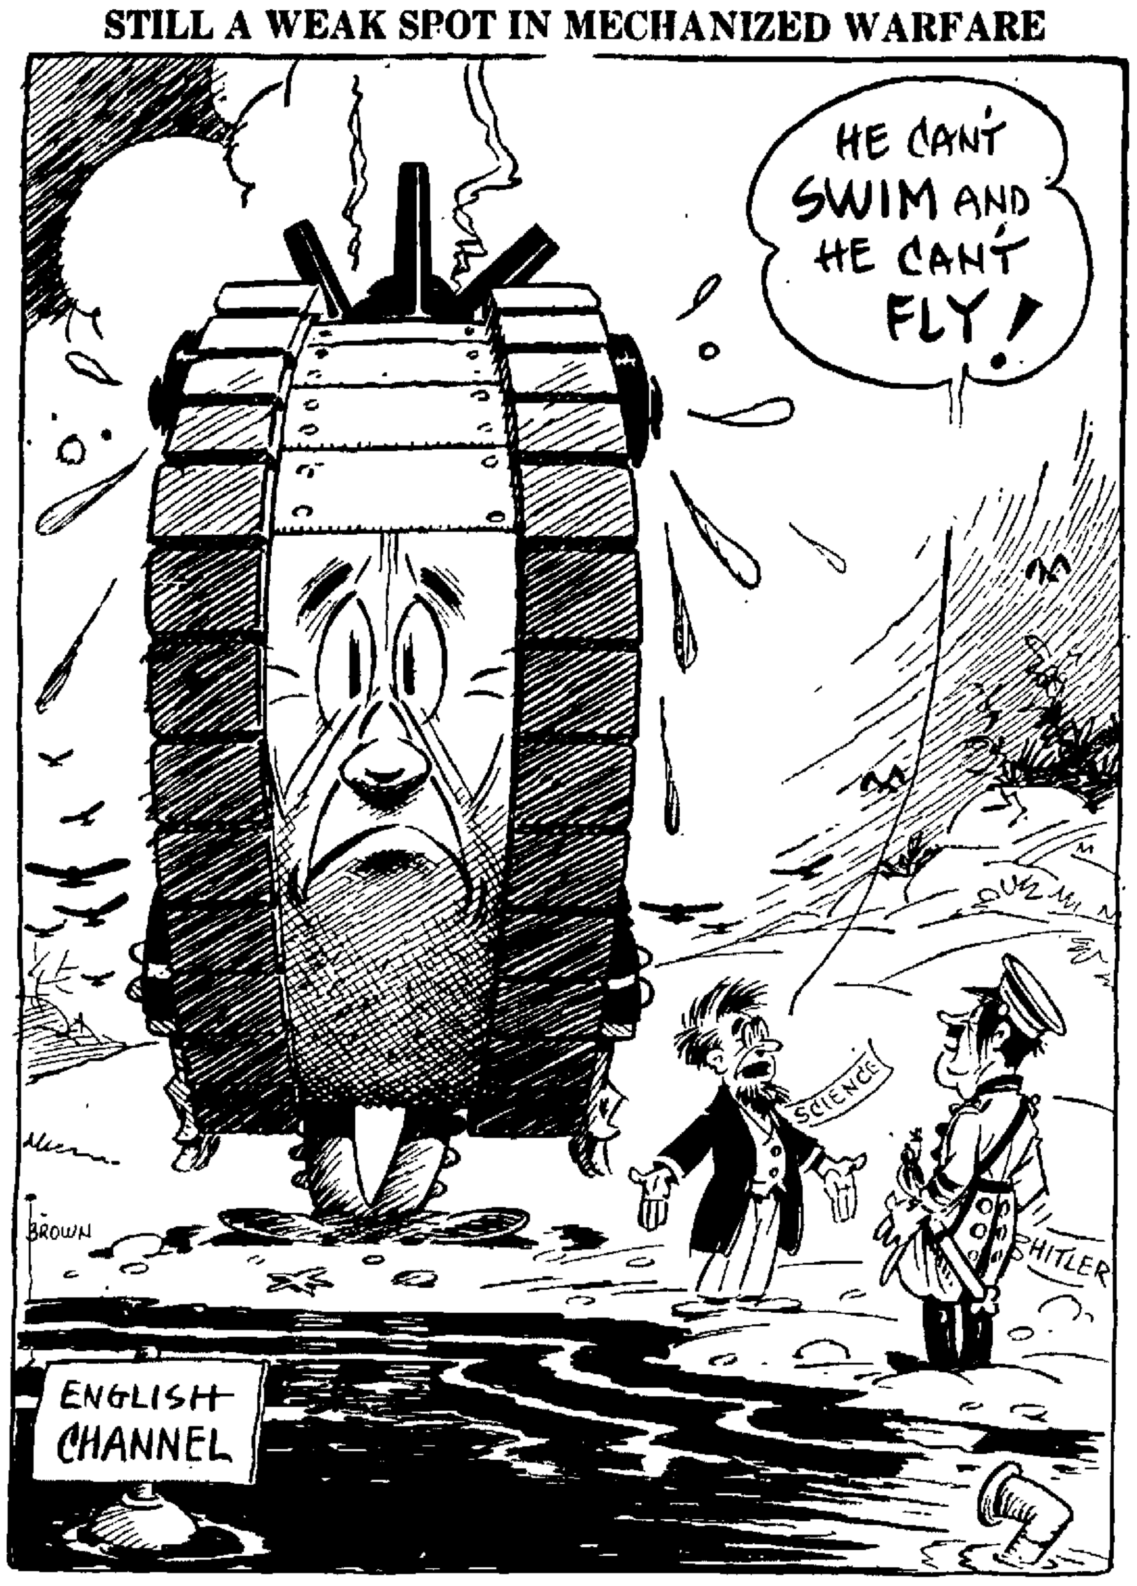
To Identify Foreign Agents

THERE are some three hundred foreign agents in California who have been enjoying the privilege of automobile license plates like those issued to authorized government agents of the United States. In addition to the word "California," the plates have carried the letters "U. S." The state is now calling in those licenses and replacing them with new ones bearing the label "Foreign Gov't."

No doubt the California authorities believe the new license plates will simplify the work of police and other officials who must watch out for possible illegal acts of foreign agents. They should work no hardship. The label doesn't seem to infringe anybody's rights, privileges or freedom.

One newspaper mention was to the effect that "a caddy was only slightly stunned by a flask of lightning"—probably somewhere around the 19th hole.

STILL A WEAK SPOT IN MECHANIZED WARFARE



No Parallel For Foreign Policy

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—There may be some parallel in history for the course now being followed by the United States government, and the open expressions of so many non-official American speakers and editors, but researchers seem unable to find it.

For example, the various moves which have been made in defiance of neutrality, moves which very obviously have the approval of a considerable majority— some of the polls estimate it as more than 60% of the American people, and yet which run absolutely counter to the supposed desire of a very large majority of the people to keep out of war.

Putting it bluntly, and undiplomatically, it would appear that nothing this country may do is likely either to get it into the war or keep it out. That decision, it would appear from all the known facts, will be made for us, not by us. It will be made by Adolf Hitler.

To put it another way, this country has already done so many things obviously hostile to Germany, and designed to aid her enemies, that if there were any purpose to be served, Hitler might feel himself justified in declaring war against the United States.

On the other hand, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxemburg never did the slightest thing to irritate the Germans, yet they were crushed without warning and in violation of the most solemn treaty promises.

* * *

SO THAT it woud seem that Hitler decides what countries he will fight. The other countries either fight or do not fight, as he determines. Even in the Napoleonic era there was nothing quite like it. Some of the episodes seem similar, but one must remember that there was always present the determination on the part of most of the European countries to crush the French regime. Always there was plotting for new conspiracies to whip Napoleon. He knew it, and so sometimes struck without waiting to be attacked.

Hitler of course also maintains that an "encircling" movement was being attempted against him. In a way this was true, but it dated back to the Versailles treaty, and he actually encountered nothing in the way of a combination to stop him until he broke his word given at Munich, and seized, not only the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia, but the non-German parts as well.

Up to that time, as a matter of fact, while France was eager to hold Germany down to the Versailles treaty limits, she had no support. Britain actually winked at the occupation of the Rhineland and its fortification.

* * *

ALL of which would seem to make the arguments of the isolationists rather technical. We are committing acts which in other times would be branded as acts of war. For example, the original idea of a "neutrality patrol," which justified the recommissioning of the World war destroyers. For example, the repeal of the arms embargo while a war was actually in progress. For example, the more recent virtual alliance with Canada, which is at war with Germany.

And this is topped off with the delivery to the British of the 50 destroyers, with guns and ammunition abroad, which has long been predicted in these dispatches. Consider also the fact that a joint British and American committee will select the precise sites for the new military and air bases in British possessions!

And all this in the midst of a presidential campaign, with the candidates of both major parties actually approving the results accomplished—even if the opposition objects to the manner in which they are done—and with minorities in both parties very unhappy, but unable politically to do anything.

Some Fallacies About Appendix.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

DOES THE appendix ever cause pain by having a spasm?

Long ago when appendicitis was a new word the theory was widely held that the symptoms were due to a grape seed that had entered the appendix.

When eating grapes we were admonished not to swallow the seeds—an extremely unpopular piece of advice, because if you extract the seeds of a grape while the grape is in your mouth the result is a bitter taste which entirely spoils the pleasure of grape-eating.

A more enlightened opinion later absolved grape seeds of the responsibility of causing appendicitis and pointed out that what the surgeons had been finding inside the appendices were not grape seeds but tiny intestinal stones. So grape-eating was resumed in the more civilized and only proper method of swallowing the grape entire.

A Beautiful Theory.

This ancient theory has now raised its head again under a new name—appendiclausis. It means, so we are told, a pain or spasm, simulating acute appendicitis, but caused not by appendicitis but by an obstruction to the appendix. The muscular layer of the appendix attempts to overcome this obstruction and causes the cramping.

The only trouble with this beautiful theory, which is certainly destined to be a great boon to amateur surgeons, is that the appendix has practically no muscles at all. True the text-books show a muscular layer in the wall of the appendix, but this inclusion is due more to haste and habit than to real study.

Maximow, in his text-book on histology, says, "The muscular ring of the appendix is poorly developed." Appendiclausis, in our opinion, is rather like the conception of chronic appendicitis—there's money in it for surgeons, but only trouble for everybody else.

In our discussion of the advisability of extracting bad teeth in the column recently, we took the conservative point of view that such teeth should be removed only when there is difinite proof that they are causing trouble—that they harbor actual infection. We are glad this week to see an article by Dr. Louis I. Grossman, of Philadelphia, which supports this point of view. Referring to pulpless teeth, Dr. Grossman says that the danger of the pulpless tooth as a source of infection can no longer be held valid.

"Fifteen or twenty years ago," he writes, "in the heyday of the theory of focal infection, physicians were ordering patients to have their teeth removed for almost every kind of obscure complaint." Pulpless teeth were almost routinely removed. A pulpless tooth is not a dead tooth. It still has vital relationships with surrounding tissues.

Clinical evidence shows that many people with pulpless teeth have no apparent systemic involvement."

Clouds Conceal German Raiders, Also Help British Over Berlin

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The most important development during the last few days of bombing London is the realization by British and American observers that bad weather is not going to help the defense of London, but instead will hinder it.

Second important development is the realization that Britain's only real defense is retaliatory raids against Berlin. This means, of course, more long-distance bombers—almost all of which are now obtained from the United States.

It had been generally expected that with the arrival of foggy weather, London would be safer because Nazi raids would have to abate. However, there was considerable cloudy weather over England last week, and during it, Nazi bombers had a field day. What they did was to use the clouds as a shield and drop their bombs, without aiming, all over London.

On clear days they had tried to aim at military targets. But at night, and during cloudy weather, the Nazis gave up any pretense of taking aim.

One day last week it will be recalled that only two German planes were shot down and one British plane. This phenomenal casualty list was because of cloudy weather. Dispatches from England told how the British public was complaining because anti-aircraft guns were not firing, and British planes were not in the air. This also was because of cloudy weather.

* * *

Cloudy Hide and Seek.

WHAT happened was that when British ships went aloft they could not find the raiders. The Nazis were hidden in cloud banks, dropping their bombs indiscriminately. Under these circumstances, there was only one way for the British to locate the enemy bombers—by means of sound detection and radio directions from the ground.

However, these radio directions must be three dimensional to be effective, and there is such a wide margin for error that looking for a bomber in the clouds is like looking for a needle in a haystack. That is why British planes simply did not go into the air when the weather was too cloudy.

It is important to note that the same handicap applies to Berlin. In other words, the British raiders will be equally aided by foggy weather over the German capital. So the war of nerves and indiscriminate bombing is likely to get worse.

Note—One thing which caused the downfall of France and the lowland countries was the collapse of morale, plus fifth column activities. However, U. S. observers in London are unanimous that British morale is at the highest peak, and that the British will fight as no army has fought for generations in Europe.

Blue Eyes.

WHEN Jesse Jones, big, fawn-eyed federal loan administrator crosses the path of Congresswoman Jessie Sumner, from Illinois, it's like mixing hydrogen and chlorine in the sunlight. The explosion is instantaneous.

Their feud, a Capitol Hill classic, dates back to a hearing last year before the house banking committee, of which Miss Jessie Sumner is a rookie member. Mr. Jesse Jones was testifying on an RFC bill when she began badgering him with pointed questions about his administrative ability.

For a minute Jones replied amiably, but finally even he balked at the sizzling queries. Jones said nothing, just sat looking at Miss Sumner with a deadpan expression. This infuriated her, and slamming her hand on the table, she demanded that he be compelled to answer.

Before anyone could say anything, Jones rose and walked up to the semi-circular bar at which the committee sat. He draped an arm over the railing and looked squarely at Miss Sumner.

"My deepest apologies to the lady," he drawled. "To tell the truth, I was so busy admiring the color of her eyes that I didn't hear her question. Will she be good enough to restate it?"

The entire committee grinned. But Miss Sumner, angrier than ever, closed the incident by snapping, "Never mind."

But she didn't forget. And recently when Jones again appeared before the committee on the $500,000,000 bill for trade loans to South America, Congresswoman Sumner again began to shoot sizzlers at him. Again Jones put on his exasperating Sphinx act and again Miss Sumner protested. This time, looking appealingly at the committee, Jones said:

"Mr. Chairman, the lady has no grounds to protest against me. Actually, I am the one to complain. The lady has stolen my name, she monopolizes my time and in the end will probably vote against me. I ask you—is that justice?"

Willkie Irons Out.

THAT large delegation of national committeemen and state chairmen who pow-wowed with Wendell Willkie in Rushville got the promise of patronage for which they came.

This q.t. assurance came just as a lot of the "boys" were becoming uneasy over what they considered a marked coldness toward them in the inner Willkie command. This reached a point where the politicos finally demanded a showdown. Hence the Rushville meeting.

According to the private word being put out by the GOP chiefs who attended, Willkie was very reassuring.

"He told us," they reported, "I am an organization Republican. Don't be worried because I have not been close to the organization during the past few months. I wanted to get into our camp all the Democrats and Independents I could. I want you to go home and emphasize that I am a Republican, an organization Republican, and that I'll be an organization Republican after election."

The leaders add that Willkie gave them definitely to understand that it is his intention to have patronage handled by the party organization and not by the Willkie clubs.

"The first thing I want you to do when you reach your homes," he is quoted as saying, "is to call your county chairmen in and tell them what I have told you. I'm depending on them and I want them to know it—as coming directly from me."

Note—Chief among those who say they are satisfied is John Hamilton, hard-working former national chairman who now, as executive director, is managing the key Chicago campaign headquarters. Before the Rushville meeting, Hamilton told several national committeemen that "either things will be straightened out or you may have a new executive director." Hamilton is back at his desk, buzzing with new zip.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—At the department of commerce, they tell you that the No. 1 problem for the economic trouble shooters in the national defense program is RUBBER.

Funny thing about rubber—it's as American as Indian corn. But now that this hemisphere is facing a crisis, an adequate rubber supply is almost as far away as star dust.

Rubber was unknown until wandering adventurers before the 17th century watched South American Indians playing with a ball that bounced like nothing the white men had ever seen.

* * *

Back to Buggy Rides.

YET today, if rubber imports to the western hemisphere were shut off, about 30,000,000 motor vehicles would cease to chug, the defense program would be dead, and the horse-and-buggy days (without rubber tires) would come back.

The United States uses 50,000 tons of rubber a month. Seventy-five per cent for tires. Ninety-eight per cent of the world supply of rubber comes from the Dutch East Indies and British Malaya (each produces around 376,000 tons a year). A paltry 16,000 tons a year come from Brazil, on the continent where rubber first bounced into the economic picture. Africa, Central America, other South American countries and India account for the rest.

* * *

Looking over the record and considering "any eventuality," it does look pretty black for rubber if worst comes to worst. But even though you might have a year-and-a-half of discomfort, in event of a rubber shortage, there's no more use worrying about rubber than about tin.

* * *

Synthetics on the Way.

SYNTHETIC rubbers (there are several) are well on their way. We produced 1,700 tons of usable synthetic rubber last year. If this seems only a drop in the bucket, note that we will produce 10,000 tons this year.

Under government - subsidized plant expansion to the tune of about half a billion dollars (one-twentieth of the present national defense outlay) we probably could be supplying the full demand in eighteen months to two years.

Synthetic rubber is three to five times as costly as the natural product under the present set-up. This will not be true even a year from now. It does not mean that finished synthetic rubber products will cost anything like that much more.

To conserve rubber, we could have driveless days for our 30,000,000 cars and trucks. We could use retreads when the old tires blew out. We could decrease the national speed limit (rubber experts estimate that if everybody held throttles to 30 or 40 miles per hour, it would add months to our rubber supply.) We even could reclaim rubber from worm-eaten rubber bands, bursted toy balloons and tired blimps. Somewhere along the line we would turn to our approximately eight months' supply of raw and finished rubber.

* * *

Might Grow Our Own.

IT MIGHT be tough, but it undoubtedly would work, and perhaps in a year or two, department of agriculture experts, working with the natural supply in South and Central America, and California, would have a satisfactory crop of natural rubber in the offing.

The department of commerce says that if we have an enemy in the world, he had better not plan on licking us by snapping up all the world's rubber.

He might upset the rubber-tired apple cart for a while, but in the end, we'd be pop-popping along on all four wheels again.

Words of the Wise

If the true spark of religious and civil liberty be kindled, it will burn. Human agency cannot extinguish it. Like the earth's central fire, it may be smothered for a time; the ocean may overwhelm it; mountains may press it down; but its inherent and unconquerable force will heave both the ocean and the land, and at some time or another, the volcano will break out and flame to heaven.—Daniel Webster.

A Farmer's Diary

Making Sauerkraut

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN you raise a hundred cabbage heads and half of them burst overnight, due to excessive rain, it is time to make sauerkraut. The other morning, after a look at my patch, I borrowed my neighbor's kraut cutter.

It is one of the old fashioned wooden kind, with a box that slides to hold the heads, while the operator, by main strength, shoves them back and forth across the dual slicing knives, and shredded, juicy fodder falls moistly into the crock below.

I had a five-gallon jar and a bushel of trimmed heads of cabbage. Also a row of big-eyed little boys as a self-appointed audience.

First a layer of shredded cabbage, then a sprinkle of salt. Then stomp the layer of cut cabbage with a wooden mallet or potato masher until the juice shows at the top. Repeat, layer after layer, until within two inches of the top. Then spread the top with mammoth cabbage leaves, and weight it with a plate and a clean round stone.

Kraut making recalls to me the sound and rhythm of the flail, the sleet and cold of winter days years ago, when mother cooked a huge kettle of kraut and fat pork to feed the hands, or a dish of kraut and dumplings. More than once I have watched my parents fill a 50 gallon barrel with kraut for winter use.

Then father would store the big barrel in a dark corner of the cellar, and the overruning juice, or "brei," would make marks upon the sides, and permeate the cellar with its odor. I used to wonder where all that juice came from. After six weeks or so a scum would form, with dots of hairy mold. This was the outward sign of inward ripeness. The weight was taken off, the liquid dipped out and the upper layer of kraut discarded. What remained was canned or sold or eaten from the barrel.

Sauerkraut is a food for lusty hearty eaters—a food that has no claim to aristocratic lineage—a farmer food as plebian as pigs feet. But as a means of keeping for every day in winter the vitamins and roughage of summer greens—and so keeping health and vitality at small expense, it has no peer.

39 TAKE FINAL PILOT TRAINING EXAMS TONIGHT

Complete 3-Months Course In 5 Weeks; 15 to Be Given Scholarship.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Today is a red letter day in the lives of 39 boys and three girls enrolled in the Civil Aeronautics Authority's civilian pilot training ground school at Senior high school.

Tonight, the class which originally numbered 50 students, will climax five weeks of instruction by taking their final examinations.

For the past eight evenings, including Saturday and Sunday nights the prospective pilots have been "cribbing" for the tests, reviewing instruction given them by Instructor James R. Harrington in the history of aviation, theory of flight, civil air regulations, navigation, meteorology, parachutes, aircraft power plants, instruments and radio uses and terms.

As part of the CAA's nationwide program to train civilian pilots under stepped up national defense measures, the youths have completed the three months course in the record time of five weeks.

The examinations will be conducted under the supervision of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association, after which 15 flight scholarships will be awarded by the government to the 15 students with the highest grades.

Exam papers, prepared in question and answer form have been received from the CAA and will be forwarded to Washington after they have been graded tonight.

It is not expected that the award of scholarships will be announced for at least another week. The announcement will signal the way for inauguration of flight training at the municipal airport, probably about Oct. 1

All students who have attained a passing grade will be awarded a certificate of ground school competence by the CAA. This certificate is good for one year in the event they should decide to take flying instruction on their own.

* * *

Russell Gladhill, who has been assisting Harrington with flight instruction at the port received his instructors re-rating the past week. Gladhill took the examination at Columbus.

Co-owner of the new Rearwin cabin plane that was delivered here several weeks ago is Dr. Burr Hathaway, pathologist at the General hospital. Dr. Hathaway purchased Tom Jones' interest in the ship, becoming co-owner with Dr. L. D. Bonar.

Jones took Hathaway's interest in an Areonca shared by Charles Silsby and William Kick. Jones has been interested in the new Silvaire Luscombe so don't be surprised if one makes its appearance at the port soon.

HAVE REUNION.

The 12th annual reunion of Wolff's Ridge school was held Saturday at the home of D. J. Dent, sr., south of Ontario, with 55 persons in attendance. Walter Terman was elected president during the business session, and Mrs. Harley Prosser, secretary-treasurer. A picnic dinner was an event of noon, and it was announced that the reunion will be held at the same place again next year.

Baseball, Japan's national game, was first played there in 1873.

Chicago Welcomes Willkie

Republican nominee Wendell Willkie is seen waving to the enthusiastic crowd that lined the curbs in Chicago's loop to welcome him as he stopped off on his campaign tour Saturday. The reception was reported to be the most colorful of its kind in Chicago history. Willkie later made several extemporaneous speeches to factory and stockyard workers.

Never Tried a Medicine the Equal of "Vendol", He Says

Mansfield Carpenter Gives This Great Root, Herb, and Alkaline Medicine Full Credit for Relief From Dizziness, Spots Darting Before Eyes, Coated Tongue, Headaches, and Other Troubles Due To Being Constipated.

"I had been suffering with constipation a long time, which caused a number of troubles, but I never tried any medicine the equal of Vendol, which gave marvelous relief," says Mr. Curt Leybold, well known carpenter and contractor on Route 4, between Mansfield and Ashland.

"This constipated condition made me feel sluggish most of the time. I felt bilious, little spots darted before my eyes, when I'd stoop over I'd feel lightheaded and dizzy. My tongue had a brown furry coating, and I had an awful taste in my mouth.

"Following nearly every meal my food turned sour in my stomach, gas filled me up and felt like a lump in my throat. I would be so nervous any sudden noise made me jump, and I passed many a sleepless night.

"Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets gave me the most complete and satisfying relief from constipation I had found; then the indigestion, sour stomach, gas, choking feeling, and heartburn disappeared. All the dizziness, headaches, and tired-out feeling, were relieved, and my tongue cleared up. I now enjoy long nights of restful sleep and awaken feeling grand and ready for my daily duties. I never tried a medicine the equal of Vendol, so am glad to tell others about it so they, too, may get the same relief."

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists everywhere and is highly recommended here by Central Drug Store, corner Main and Fourth streets.

MORNING NUPTIALS READ AT ST. PETER'S

AT 9:30 O'CLOCK this morning Miss Georgia LaVada Ewing became the bride of John A. Dalton, jr., before the altar of St. Peter's Catholic church, with Msgr. R. C. Goebel reading the nuptial mass. The bridegroom's brother, Richard Dalton, attended the priest, and Raymond Baum presided at the organ, playing "Grand Triumphal Wedding March" by Guilmant, "O' Sancta Maria, Hymn to the Blessed Virgin," a melody by Guilmant, music from the Cum Jubilo Mass of the 12th century, and a wedding march recessional by Stern.

The bride, daughter of Mr. George S. Ewing, 253 Rae avenue, was escorted by her father to the chancel, which was decorated with palms, ferns and two fan-shaped arrangements of picardy gladioli and Johanna Hill roses. The church candles lighted the altar and white muslin covered the aisle.

The former Miss Ewing was attired in a gown of white satin fashioned along princess lines with full leg-o-mutton sleeves tapering to points over her wrists. The low sweetheart neckline of the dress was finished with medallions of white lace on the shoulders, and tiny satin-covered buttons extended down the back to the hipline, from which cascaded a long, graceful court train. Her English half veil of sheer hand-rolled bridal illusion fell softly over her face from a halo of orange blossoms, and her only jewlry was a gold locket, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a round front style bouquet of gardenias and white roses.

Sister Attends.

Miss Mary Edith Ewing of Cleveland was her sister's maid-of-honor, and she appeared in a dress of Spanish rose taffeta, made with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and small bolero jacket with puffed sleeves. Her hat was of matching pleated taffeta and her round bouquet was of Briarcliff roses and gladioli tips. The bride's other sister, Miss Marjorie Celestine Ewing of Louisville, Ky., was the bridesmaid, and she wore a gown of perrywinkle blue taffeta, trimmed with a darker shade of velvet ribbon at the neck and hemlines. Her hat was of matching pleated taffeta, and Johanna Hill roses and ageratum formed her front style bouquet.

Mr. Dalton, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dalton, sr., 187 Vennum avenue, chose his brother, Robert, to be his best man. Another brother, William, and Henry Miller of Ft. Wayne, Ind., were the ushers.

Mrs. Ewing wore a black crepe jacket dress with black and royal blue accessories for her daughter's wedding, while Mrs. Dalton, sr., wore black and white accessories with her black gown. Mrs. Ewing's corsage was of Talisman roses, and Mrs. Dalton's was an orchid.

Serve Breakfast.

Immediately following the ceremony, a breakfast was held at the Wickliffe Manor. The T-shaped table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, banked with smilax. Lighted tapers, and the bridesmaids' bouquets also decorated the table. Later today the couple left for a wedding trip to Detroit, Mich., and the Great Lakes region. Mrs. Dalton, jr., traveled in a rust-colored wool suit with black and white accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Upon returning to this city, the couple will reside at 137 South Main street. The bride attended Ashland college after graduating from Mansfield Senior high school, and she is employed in the office of the Ohio Public Service company. Mr. Dalton, jr., attended St. Peter's high school and was graduated from St. Joseph's college in Renssellaer, Ind. He now is employed in the advertising department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Out-of-town guests present for the occasion were: Rev. Fr. Joseph Algier, Louisville, Ky.; Richard and Anne Dalton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dalton and son Shelby; Allene Black, Centerburg; Mary Katherine Dalton, Cleveland.

Informally Speaking...

Sept. 16, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

COUNTLESS fond farewells were said over the week-end, as many of the city's collegians left for their respective campuses. . . . Farnum Coffin, who has spent the summer here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott F. Coffin, returned to Rochester, N. Y., Saturday for his second year in the medical school at the University of Rochester.

Miami university down in Oxford has beckoned quite a number of Mansfield girls to study there. . . . Janet Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Kelly, went down Saturday to enroll for her freshman year. . . . She's planning to major in physical education and will live in West Hall. . . . Among the other first year students, who went down to Oxford this week-end, were Jean Wolff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wolff; Kay Glessner (whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Glessner) and Virginia Casperson, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Casperson. . . . Frances Hanson (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hanson), Naomi Giffin, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl G. Giffin, and Eleanor Fraser will all be upper class members, and they're going down this week.

• • •

There was all kinds of trunk and suitcase packing going on in the Allen Bond household over the week-end, as two of their daughters were departing. . . . Although she'd thought for a time of enrolling at Denison university, Eleanor decided to go to William and Mary college in Williamsburg, Va., and she left Sunday afternoon with Helen Hartman (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hartman) who will be a freshman there this year too. . . . Janie, Eleanor's older sister, who was a student at Virginia Intermont last year, left yesterday for Los Angeles and Hollywood, Cal., where she will spend the winter with her aunt, Mrs. George Kenson. . . . They're planning a motor trip to Vancouver upon her arrival.

• • •

TWO OTHER MANSFIELDERS who are resuming their studies this week are Robert and Richard Wolford, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolford. . . . They left last week-end for their respective schools—Robert having gone to Jefferson Medical college in Philadelphia, Pa., for his senior year and Richard going down to Wittenberg college in Springfield for his senior year.

• • •

Still other departing collegians are Virginia Fairman, who will be a freshman at Ohio university in Athens; Janet Baughman, who's gone to Bowling Green, and Margie Schwein (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Schwein) who will enroll at Mt. Union college this week. . . . Mr. and Mrs. James LeMunyon accompanied their son, James, jr., down to Athens yesterday, as he is entering Ohio university as a freshman in business administration this week.

• • •

You know, Lucy, it's hard to tell what important personage you might meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Jameson here of late—they've been entertaining some very illustrious folk recently. Madame Elandi, famous European singer now retired, is there this week, and Charles [illegible], New York concert pianist, was a guest there last week-end.

• • •

WHILE vacationing recently Mr. and Mrs. George L. Cretors and their daughter, Cynthia Ann, were guests of the general office of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company in Cincinnati. . . . Accompanied by Mrs. S. M. Stivers and Richard and Annalee Stivers, they toured the food research laboratories of the Kroger Food Foundation, the factory, bakery and the new food freezing plants just opened this year. . . . Before returning home they also visited at Grand Lake, Mich.

• • •

Speaking of California, as we were a few paragraphs back, Lucy, I mustn't forget to tell you that Helen Seaton left for San Francisco yesterday afternoon. . . . She's going to spend the winter visiting there with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bowman of Columbus.

That's all for now, so write soon and I'll answer again next Monday.

Loving,

Marianne

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Attractively Styled Autumn Dinner Dress

Even without the white bear rug, this would be an attractive dinner dress—as wearable and un-cloying as a good suit. It combines discretion with dash—showy turquoise and gold nail head decoration against a descreet brown-crepe, long-sleeved background. Shown at an American Theater Wing benefit for the Allied Relief Fund.

Business Women Attend Meeting Over Week-end

The annual president's meeting of the Business and Professional Women's clubs was held yesterday, and attended by 200 officers and committee chairmen of the various clubs in Ohio. Delegates from Mansfield included Marvel Cowell, Minnie Laudon, Faye Cisco, Mary Elizabeth Gruber, Irma Augustine and Virginia Dye.

During the morning committee reports were given with Mrs. Marie Schaffter, Wooster, state president, conducting the business session. Luncheon was served in the Century room of the Neil House in Columbus with Mrs. Doris Williams, Ashland, first vice president of the state, in charge.

Announcement of the fifth district meeting which will be held at the Cleveland hotel in Cleveland Nov. 17, and the state convention at Cincinnati May 16 to 18 was also made.

Couple Exchange Vows at Kentucky Church Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Kennedy of R. D. 1, Lexington, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Grace Edna, to Bernard Bemiller, 329 North Mulberry street. The wedding was solemnized in the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church at Covington, Ky., at 11 o'clock last Saturday morning, with Rev. John Gray Rheind officiating.

The bride wore a soldier blue street-length dress with a shoulder corsage of red roses. The bride's parents and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil R. Kennedy, accompanied the couple, who've now returned to this city, where they will live at the Mulberry street address.

Mrs. Bemiller is a graduate of Lexington high school. Mr. Bemiller, son of H. Bemiller, is an employe of the Pepsi Cola company here.

Janis Home Scene Of Shower Party

Miss Betty McQuillen and Mrs. C. E. Bishop entertained with a dinner party for Miss Dorothy Kass, bride-elect of Duane Brown of Ashland, Saturday evening at the Susie Janis home on the Park avenue west road. The 12 guests were seated at a long table, which was decorated with peach, green and orchid appointments, for dinner.

Bridge was the diversion, and score prizes were awarded to the honoree and Miss Donna Enlow. The guests presented Miss Kass with a shower of miscellaneous gifts, and she received an electrical gift and a gift of furniture from the hostesses.

Mrs. Nick Siclair of Galion is feting Miss Kass with a party this evennig. The couple will be married on Sept. 28 in the parsonage of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Margaret Johnson Will Speak At Session of Women's Guild

WITH the re-organization of the women's societies of the Methodist churches, a great deal of business will be transacted this week when new units gather for their first session. In addition the coming of Margaret Johnson, children's page editor of the Cleveland Press, under the auspices of the Women's guild of the First Presbyterian church will make a busy and interesting week for the members of church organizations.

The talk by Mrs. Johnson will be given in the church parlors at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Johnson spoke here last season under the auspices of the American Association of University Women. Her subject Thursday will be "Christian Youth Answers Today's Challenge."

In addition to the meetings of all four of the units of the First Methodist church with various hostesses the same day there will be a number of other similar sessions throughout the week.

Today the Central Methodist guild will meet with Mrs. George Sherman on Arlington avenue, while Tuesday the Stars of Hope class will be in session at the South Main church with Mrs. Katherine Cook in charge. Wednesday has been selected for the sessions of several districts of the First Lutheran church. The Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church will be in session Wednesday with Mrs. Louisa Brant and Mrs. Orlan Hoyer and the Gleaners class of the United Brethren church will meet with Miss Carrie Lucas the same day.

Going back to Thursday once again we find it is also the choice of the Loyal Women's class of the First Christian church, the St. Paul Thursday Nighters, and the Women's Division of Christian Service of the central Methodist church. The latter group will elect officers at the church.

Becoming Hat Always Brings Luck

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mrs. Wendell Willkie speaks of the white pique hat with its band of black belting as her "good luck hat." And whether her husband becomes our next president or not, the now-famous hat may still go on record as her "good luck hat," because it's highly becoming to her and shows several of her good points.

Any woman fortunate enough to find a modern hat that is becoming and in style has a good luck hat, whether there's any political plum on the horizon for herself or husband or if she's juset trying to be elected president of her favorite club.

For the past three years, women's hats have been fearsome things. There are no available statistics on how many men they may have driven to celibacy. But judging from the cartoons men draw and the cracks made against them in the public print, the gentlemen are not intrigued by these strange formations.

Patience is evidently one of Mrs. Willkie's virtues to have found an up-to-date hat not in the least freakish. Other women, granting a long and prayerful quest, might be as fortunate as the Republican Presidential nominee's wife in finding something among the mad-hatter eccentricities that is becoming.

Rumor has it that Wendell likes the "good luck hat" and has been known to ask in Othello-like tones, when she wears something else: "Where's that hat?"

Believe it or not, I heard two or three weeks ago that a delegation of business women had sent a petition to a hat manufacturer saying: "Please let us have some sane hats for business, even if you have to give us 'play hats' that are exotic." And some of the "play hats," if that's really the name of them, would queer the Venus de Milo if she left her pedestal.

The older women has murmured a prayer of devout thankfulness for the return of the veil. Indications are, in early autumn millinery, that its floating effect will give way to the neatly pinned tailored suggestion, which keeps the hair in perfect order and tempers the mid-day glare on a complexion no longer school-girlish.

Posture Still Most Important

By MME. QUI VIVE

Well-mannered individuals don't trot around criticizing the appearance of other people. It's something that just isn't done, even in the family circle. The exception is poor posture. Everybody picks on the poor dear who doesn't hold herself splendidly. "Stand up," "Throw your shoulders back!" She hears it all the time, gets pretty sick of it. Some of the more intimate reformers give her a smacking thump on the back to emphasize their remarks: it infuriates her. But she goes right on slumping along, chest flat, the upper portion of her body thrown forward. You'd think that, just for the sake of peace, she would pull herself up by the bootstraps and look like a spirited, vitalized young lady.

The trouble is not with the shoulders that have become rounded, but with the spinal column. Keep the backbone properly posed, the head balanced and the chest will be lifted, shoulders will not fall.

The spinal column is the main support of the body. It has thirty-four little hinges that give suppleness of motion. It is held in place by innumerable muscles which will not be sound and elastic if posture is not correct. Good musculature is the first requirement of a good figure.

* * *

With the head carried low and the shoulders pressed forward, the muscles of the back bone become stretched and weak, like elastic bands that have been under strain. Abdominal muscles weaken, form a horrid little shelf that makes the costliest gown look like something that has been pulled off the bargain counter. The internal organs are not likely to function as well as if the body were held erect. All in all it is a pretty kettle of fish and no girl who is out for beauty rewards should let herself get into this bad habit of slumping and slouching.

Properly selected exercises under a trained instructor in a school of physical education are well worth while, will correct conditions if they are not caused by physical ailments. In some cases there are anatomic defects that require the help of a physician.

* * *

Stand on your toes, you who find your shoulders out of form. Extend your hands high above your head and stretch. Sway from side to side, moving the arms along with the body, keeping the arms high.

Take the soldier's position feet together, hips back, chest full. Place your fingers outspread over your chest. Take a deep inhalation through the nostrils, throwing the head back so you feel a pull on the shoulders. Back to first position so you exhale through the lips. This exercise not only improves the figure but will increase the organic vigor of the heart and lungs.

Glazed Ham Loaf Makes Tasty Dish

By BETSY NEWMAN

I HAVE been giving you some old-fashioned recipes lately. The apple sour cream pie is another, which I am sure you will like.

Today's Menu.

Glazed Ham Loaves
Baked Potatoes
Scalloped Cauliflower
Celery and Green Pepper Salad
Apple Sour Cream Pie
Coffee

Glazed Ham Loaves.

½ lb. ground smoked ham
½ lb. veal shoulder, ground
1-3 cup cracker crumbs
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup bottled milk or 2 tablespoons evaporated milk and 2 tablespoons water
4 tablespoons minced onion.

Mix all ingredients thoroughly and shape into 5 or 6 individual loaves. Put in roaster and cover with brown sugar glaze. To make glaze, combine ½ cup vinegar and ½ cup water with 1½ cups brown sugar and 2 teaspoons prepared mustard: add about 8 whole cloves and boil together for about 8 minutes, then pour over meat. Bake at about 400 degrees F. for 1 hour, 45 minutes. Serves 6. Tested in Good Housekeeping Institute.

Apple Sour Cream Pie.

Pastry enough for 1 crust or 1 crust and lattice strips
Sliced apples
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon cinnamon
Pinch of salt.

Line pie tin with plain pastry and crimp edges, unless you want a lattic top. Fill with peeled, thinly sliced apples. Mix other ingredients and sprinkle half of it over apples. Next pour 1 cup very thick sour cream over pie and then sprinkle the rest of the sugar mixture on top. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (325 degrees) and bake about 45 minutes longer. Serve this pie cold, or it will be runny.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I forgot every precaution of care for Edith in horrified anger at what I believed to be her involuntary revelation. Tearing my hands from her clutching fingers, I bent and put my hand in a firm grip upon her shoulder.

"So you do know about Jack Leslie's plans," I almost shouted at her. "I can believe now what I have refused to believe when others have told me that you were planning to admit him when he came."

"Was it Dicky who told you that?" she queried. "Does he think that of me?"

I was wrong in this particular instance, I told myself, and I did not need Miss Whitlock's warning touch upon my own shoulder to make me release my grasp upon Edith's.

"No, Dicky did not tell me that," I assured her. "And I already have told you that I refused to believe it. But, Edith, aside from that, you knew of Jack Leslie's plans to attack the farmhouse, didn't you?"

I was relentlessly prodding upon that point, for I told myself that it would be a good thing to have what Dicky would term "something on her," in the future, should she survive her present suicidal mania. And I realized that Miss Whitlock approved the question when I no longer felt her warning touch upon my shoulder.

The look of horror had left Edith's eyes upon my assurance that Dicky was not the source of my first accusation. But they were shadowed with humiliation as she answered me.

"It is useless to deny that," she said. "Yes, I knew of his plan although I was not aiding him in it. And, as I hope for mercy from that God before whom I am soon going to stand in judgment, I tell you now that I never planned to admit that fiend here. Indeed, I was never asked to do it."

Upon a sudden impulse, I again took her twisting fingers in mine.

"I believe you, Ede," I said, "and now you must listen quietly to the reason why Dicky has not yet come to see you, and why he cannot come for several hours."

Her eyes searched mine for an instant, then she spoke with quiet docility.

"All right," she said. "I am listening."

"Dicky and Harry are both busy supervising the job of barring the windows which my father has ordered. They cannot leave for anything—you know what my father is when he is preparing for any emergency."

"Yes, I know," she whispered.

"But in another two hours, I believe,"—I went on slowly—"the job will be finished, and if necessary I will see my father myself, and ask him not to requisition Dicky for anything more until he has seen you."

"If Dicky is willing," she said mournfully.

The timbre of her voice, the look in her eyes made me join the Ananias society immediately.

"You must get that thought out of your mind at once," I said. "Dicky is not reluctant to see you."

There was a sudden softening of the flame in her eyes.

"Are you sure?" she whispered.

Care of Equipment Urged

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

IN A GREAT many states school books are free, and so are such supplies as writing paper, pens and pencils. In most school systems, however, the home must supply these accessories.

The child who does not have these simple, necessary tools is handicapped. A few just don't have the money for them. For such, wise teachers and school boards often find a means. Sometimes the school child's parents will neglect purchase of these supplies: or the child receiving the money may not buy them promptly. The same applies to books which must be bought. Very important it is that the child begin school with all the necessary equipment on hand.

Whether books and supplies be free or not, we parents owe it to our children to train them to handle such property with care and economy; and the more so if they are public property. What an opportunity the home and school have in cultivating good citizenship in this direction! We should have the child cover each of his school books with paper or cloth the very first day of school. Also let him have a bag in which to carry his books and supplies. See that he handles all these school materials at home with great care. When he writes or draws for work or play see that he is not extravagant with materials. Teachers need to stress care and economy of private and public property. Let them often examine the waste-basket and train the children to write on both sides of the sheet of paper.

Home Work.

We hope the child, especially the young child, is allowed to take a book home. In some school districts, whole states indeed, elementary children are forbidden the privilege of carrying a book home. Yet how eager the primary child is to show his reader to his parents and playmates, and to read to them from it, especially to his baby brother or sister. In some underprivileged homes there is no other book in sight. A school book carried home by a young child often is a precious bond between him and his parents.

For the child above the fifth grade a fountain pen may be very desirable: also a good dictionary. Wise is the family with growing children which goes without some luxuries in order to have an unabridged dictionary. Wise too the family who has saved in order to have one of the standard encyclopedias, very necessary in these days for the child above the fifth grade, to keep up with his school work. An encyclopedia is valuable, moreover, to help the parent answer the questions of the pre-school child; and to settel family doubts and arguments arising in their conversation.

Also a typewriter may be good investment in the home of the school child, particularly if he be in high school; and a typewriter should be considered standard student equipment for college.

"The Authority on Authorities"

CROSS-RUFF EARLY

There is one type of suit-play hand on which it is advisable to count up your winning tricks rather than your losers—the cross-ruff. The usual formula is to see how many top honor tricks are in sight, add to them the number of trumps which can be taken separately by ruffing and to them the number of tricks to be taken on trump leads which probably will be made by the defenders any time they get the lead. The total is the number you should take, but only if the ruffing is started as early in the hand as is feasible.

South's Hand
♠ K Q J 9

♣ A 8 6 5

Cross-ruff hands usually are identified as those in which there is a trump fit, but the side suits are non-fitting, short in one hand and long in the other, with no suit strong enough to furnish any number of discards. That is true of the situations shown above, the numbered hands being considered as dummies opposite South, who strives to make 4-Spades against a lead of the heart K.

With No. 1 as dummy, the declarer can count three side aces, six tricks by ruffs—three in own hand and three in dummy—plus one trick on a trump lead to make his needed ten.

When No. 2 is dummy, there are two side aces and apparently a chance to ruff four tricks in the North hand and four in the South, to make ten. But, if the defenders lead a trump when they win a diamond trick, as they should, obliging declarer to use two trumps on one trick, only nine can be made thus. Hence a better chance is to try to ruff up the diamond suit at once, never wasting dummy's trumps on ruffs, but saving them to drop hostile trumps after the diamonds are established, which probably will require three rounds.

With No. 3 as dummy, game can be counted as cross-ruffing. The two club tops, heart A, three ruffs in each hand and one trick when the opponents lead trumps after taking a heart trick, will total ten. But be careful, after wining the heart A and club K, not to use two trumps on a trick by leading a trump for an entry to South, because of that trump lead and another when the opponents take a heart trick, your ruffs will be cut to four. After the heart A and club K, lead a heart at once.

With No.4 as dummy, beware of an early club finesse. If you lose that after winning the heart trick they will lead trumps again, and your game is cooked. Here you should after the heart A embark on the cross-ruff at once and never take the club finesse, risking losing the lead twice.

HOROSCOPE

A PREPONDERANCE of auspicious planetary aspects in this day's astrological map bespeaks conspicuous success, accomplishment and happiness, both in a business and private way. An opening for outstanding achievement in connection with groups or in mass production is definitely shown, and this may be in some humanitarian, social or political plan for uplift, enlightenment or relief. Social, affectionate and domestic as well as artistic factors or reactions are involved, but there may be some unwelcome news, or perplexing problems to meet, calling for prudence and precaution. Be especially careful with agreements or correspondence.

Those whose birthday it is may expect an important year, with great propitious and happy accomplishments in both business and personal affiliations. An association with groups for political, humane or spiritual purpose, lofty and ambitious, is probable. Also the social, family or love life should bring both pleasure and profit. But be careful with all manner of writings, documents and correspondence, which may complicate or present anxiety and problems.

A child born on this day may be clever, refined, artistic, affectionate and friendly. It may have an outstanding flare for social service, political prestige or possibly spiritual uplift

MORNING NUPTIALS READ AT ST. PETER'S

AT 9:30 O'CLOCK this morning Miss Georgia LaVada Ewing became the bride of John A. Dalton, jr., before the altar of St. Peter's Catholic church, with Msgr. R. C. Goebel reading the nuptial mass. The bridegroom's brother, Richard Dalton, attended the priest, and Raymond Baum presided at the organ, playing "Grand Triumphal Wedding March" by Guilmant, "O' Sancta Maria, Hymn to the Blessed Virgin," a melody by Guilmant, music from the Cum Jubilo Mass of the 12th century, and a wedding march recessional by Stern.

The bride, daughter of Mr. George S. Ewing, 255 Rae avenue, was escorted by her father to the chancel, which was decorated with palms, ferns and two fan-shaped arrangements of picardy gladioli and Johanna Hill roses. The church candles lighted the altar and white muslin covered the aisle.

The former Miss Ewing was attired in a gown of white satin fashioned along princess lines with full leg-o-mutton sleeves tapering to points over her wrists. The low sweetheart neckline of the dress was finished with medallions of white lace on the shoulders, and tiny satin-covered buttons extended down the back to the hipline, from which cascaded a long, graceful court train. Her English half veil of sheer hand-rolled bridal illusion fell softly over her face from a halo of orange blossoms, and her only jewlry was a gold locket, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a round front style bouquet of gardenias and white roses.

Sister Attends.

Miss Mary Edith Ewing of Cleveland was her sister's maid-of-honor, and she appeared in a dress of Spanish rose taffeta, made with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and small bolero jacket with puffed sleeves. Her hat was of matching pleated taffeta and her round bouquet was of Briarcliff roses and gladioli tips. The bride's other sister, Miss Marjorie Celestine Ewing of Louisville, Ky., was the bridesmaid, and she wore a gown of perrywinkle blue taffeta, trimmed with a darker shade of velvet ribbon at the neck and hemlines. Her hat was of matching pleated taffeta, and Johanna Hill roses and ageratum formed her front style bouquet.

Mr. Dalton, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dalton, sr., 187 Vennum avenue, chose his brother, Robert, to be his best man. Another brother, William, and Henry Miller of Ft. Wayne, Ind., were the ushers.

Mrs. Ewing wore a black crepe jacket dress with black and royal blue accessories for her daughter's wedding, while Mrs. Dalton, sr., wore black and white accessories with her black gown. Mrs. Ewing's corsage was of Talisman roses, and Mrs. Dalton's was an orchid.

Serve Breakfast.

Immediately following the ceremony, a breakfast was held at the Wickliffe Manor. The T-shaped table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, banked with smilax. Lighted tapers, and the bridesmaids' bouquets also decorated the table. Later today the couple left for a wedding trip to Detroit, Mich., and the Great Lakes region. Mrs. Dalton, jr., traveled in a rust-colored wool suit with black and white accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Upon returning to this city, the couple will reside at 137 South Main street. The bride attended Ashland college after graduating from Mansfield Senior high school, and she is employed in the office of the Ohio Public Service company. Mr. Dalton, jr., attended St. Peter's high school and was graduated from St. Joseph's college in Rensselaer, Ind. He now is employed in the advertising department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Out-of-town guests present for the occasion were: Rev. Fr. Joseph Algier, Louisville, Ky; Richard and Anne Dalton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dalton and son, Shelby; Allene Black, Centerburg; Mary Katherine Dalton, Cleveland.

Attractively Styled Autumn Dinner Dress

Even without the white bear rug, this would be an attractive dinner dress—as wearable and un-cloying as a good suit. It combines discretion with dash—showy turquoise and gold nail head decoration against a descreet brown-crepe, long-sleeved background. Shown at an American Theater Wing benefit for the Allied Relief Fund.

Business Women Attend Meeting Over Week-end

The annual president's meeting of the Business and Professional Women's clubs was held yesterday, and attended by 200 officers and committee chairmen of the various clubs in Ohio. Delegates from Mansfield included Marvel Cowell, Minnie Laudon, Faye Cisco, Mary Elizabeth Gruber, Irma Augustine and Virginia Dye.

During the morning committee reports were given with Mrs. Marie Schaffter, Wooster, state president, conducting the business session. Luncheon was served in the Century room of the Neil House in Columbus with Mrs. Doris Williams, Ashland, first vice president of the state, in charge.

Announcement of the fifth district meeting which will be held at the Cleveland hotel in Cleveland Nov. 17, and the state convention at Cincinnati May 16 to 18 was also made.

Couple Exchange Vows at Kentucky Church Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Kennedy of R. D. 1, Lexington, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Grace Edna, to Bernard Bemiller, 329 North Mulberry street. The wedding was solemnized in the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church at Covington, Ky., at 11 o'clock last Saturday morning, with Rev. John Gray Rheind officiating.

The bride wore a soldier blue street-length dress with a shoulder corsage of red roses. The bride's parents and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil R. Kennedy, accompanied the couple, who've now returned to this city, where they will live at the Mulberry street address.

Mrs. Bemiller is a graduate of Lexington high school. Mr. Bemiller, son of H. Bemiller, is an employe of the Pepsi Cola company here.

Informally Speaking...

Sept. 16, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

COUNTLESS fond farewells were said over the week-end, as many of the city's collegians left for their respective campuses. . . . Farnum Coffin, who has spent the summer here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott F. Coffin, returned to Rochester, N. Y., Saturday for his second year in the medical school at the University of Rochester.

* * *

Miami university down in Oxford has beckoned quite a number of Mansfield girls to study there. . . . Janet Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Kelly, went down Saturday to enroll for her freshman year. . . . She's planning to major in physical education and will live in West Hall. . . . Among the other first year students, who went down to Oxford this week-end, were Jean Wolff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wolff; Kay Glessner (whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Glessner) and Virginia Casperson, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Casperson. . . . Frances Hanson (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hanson), Naomi Giffin, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl G. Giffin, and Eleanor Fraser will all be upper class members, and they're going down this week.

* * *

There was all kinds of trunk and suitcase packing going on in the Allen Bond household over the week-end, as two of their daughters were departing. . . . Although she'd thought for a time of enrolling at Denison university, Eleanor decided to go to William and Mary college in Williamsburg, Va., and she left Sunday afternoon with Helen Hartman (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hartman) who will be a freshman there this year too. . . . Janie, Eleanor's older sister, who was a student at Virginia Intermont last year, left yesterday for Los Angeles and Hollywood, Cal., where she will spend the winter with her aunt, Mrs. George Kenson. . . . They're planning a motor trip to Vancouver upon her arrival.

* * *

TWO OTHER MANSFIELDERS who are resuming their studies this week are Robert and Richard Wolford, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolford. . . . They left last week-end for their respective schools—Robert having gone to Jefferson Medical college in Philadelphia, Pa., for his senior year and Richard going down to Wittenberg college in Springfield for his senior year.

* * *

Still other departing collegians are Virginia Fairman, who will be a freshman at Ohio university in Athens; Janet Baughman, who's gone to Bowling Green, and Margie Schwein (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Schwein) who will enroll at Mt. Union college this week. . . . Mr. and Mrs. James LeMunyon accompanied their son, James, jr., down to Athens yesterday, as he is entering Ohio university as a freshman in business administration this week.

* * *

You know, Lucy, it's hard to [illegible] what important personage you might meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Jameson here of late—they've been entertaining so many illustrious folk recently. Madame Elandi, famous European singer, now retired, is there this week, and Charles [illegible], New York concert pianist, was a guest there last week-end.

* * *

WHILE vacationing recently, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Cretors and their daughter, Cynthia Ann, were guests of the general office of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company in Cincinnati. . . . Accompanied by Mrs. S. M. Stiners and Richard and Annalee Stiners, they toured the food research laboratories of the Kroger Food Foundation, the factory, bakery and the new [illegible] plants just opened this year. . . . Before returning home they also visited at Grand Lake, Mich.

* * *

Speaking of California, as we were a few paragraphs back, Lucy, I mustn't forget to tell you that Helen Seaton left for San Francisco yesterday afternoon. . . . She's going to spend the winter visiting there with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bowman of Columbus.

* * *

That's all for now, so write soon and I'll answer again next Monday.

Lovingly,

Marianne

Janis Home Scene Of Shower Party

Miss Betty McQuillen and Mrs. C. E. Margaret Johnson Will Speak At Session of Women's Guild

WITH the re-organization of the women's societies of the Methodist churches, a great deal of business will be transacted this week when new units gather for their first session. In addition the coming of Margaret Johnson, children's page editor of the Cleveland Press, under the auspices of the Women's guild of the First Presbyterian church will make a busy and interesting week for the members of church organizations.

The talk by Mrs. Johnson will be given in the church parlors at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Johnson spoke here last season under the auspices of the American Association of University Women. Her subject Thursday will be "Christian Youth Answers Today's Challenge."

In addition to the meetings of all four of the units of the First Methodist church with various hostesses the same day there will be a number of other similar sessions throughout the week.

Today the Central Methodist guild will meet with Mrs. George Sherman on Arlington avenue, while Tuesday the Stars of Hope class will be in session at the South Main church with Mrs. Katherine Cook in charge. Wednesday has been selected for the sessions of several districts of the First Lutheran church. The Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church will be in session Wednesday with Mrs. Louisa Brant and Mrs. Orlan Hoyer and the Gleaners class of the United Brethren church will meet with Miss Carrie Lucas the same day.

Going back to Thursday once again we find it is also the choice of the Loyal Women's class of the First Christian church, the St. Paul Thursday Nighters, and the Women's Division of Christian Service of the central Methodist church. The latter group will elect officers at the church.
